JAPS BOLSTER BURMA TROOPS

NAB BURGLAR MISSED IN 1ST STORE SEARCH

Second Detail of Officers Finds Intruder 3 Hours After First Hunt.

ADMITS TWO OTHERS

Police Chief Says Officers on First Detail To Be Quizzed on Failure.

Mansfield police captured a 25-year-old burglar in the Atlantic and Pacific company's supermarket on Bowman street early today but only after a second detail of officers was dispatched there three hours after a first detail had failed to find the man hiding in the store.

The burglar, a colored youth, was found hiding in a pile of sugar bags at the market at 12:55 a. m. when Charles Tither, manager of the store, called police the second time after seeing a figure move in the rear of the store.

Tither said that the youth surrendered without a fight and police reported that the burglar had confessed to two other burglaries.

Tither had been called to the store to check his stock after the first detail of police had investigated a burglar report at 10:16 p. m.

The first detail, composed of Lieut. Carl Kalstein and Patrolman Donald Mitchell, made a search of the store in answer to a call from Mrs. Grace A. Ernsberger, 352 Bowman street. Mrs. Ernsberger telephoned police that she had heard glass being broke near the store and that someone had climbed through a window.

Lieut. Kalstein and Patrolman Mitchell, investigating the report just 45 minutes before they went off duty, reported that they found a window broken and that they had summoned Tither to check his stock.

Although only Kalstein and Mitchell investigated the first report, four members of the department were detailed after receiving the second call.

Capt. Paul Whipp headed the second detail and was accompanied by Patrolman William Colby, Charles Letizia and Identification Officer E. C. Fuller.

Police Chief Thomas M. Bell said today that he would confer with Kalstein and Mitchell to learn why they had not discovered the burglar when they investigated the case.

Chief Bell said that he didn't have all the facts of the case as yet and that he would "have a talk" with Kalstein and Mitchell.

Asked if his "talk" could be considered an investigation of the case, Chief Bell answered "It depends whether the facts brought

Exchange Of Axis, U. S., Diplomats Starts This Week

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The exchange of Axis officials for American diplomats interned aboard starts this week with the departure of the first Europe-bound group.

The Swedish liner Drottningholm, which will shuttle diplomats across the Atlantic until the exchange is completed, may leave tonight from New York for the first trip to Lisbon.

The exact sailing time has not been set because of the possibility of last minute delays and the desire of the state department to get the first batch of some 700 Axis diplomats into and out of New York without too much attention.

The higher ranking diplomats will go first, including those of the German and Italian embassies and a few Hungarians, Rumanians and Bulgarians. Subsequent trips will take the lesser officials and others, including newspapermen, who are included in the exchange.

WINS AWARD

Officer Commended by Roosevelt Presented With Navy Cross.

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — (U.P.) — Lieut. Commdr. Corydon M. Wassell, commended in President Roosevelt's radio speech last week for successfully evacuating 12 wounded seamen of the cruisers Houston ad Marblehead from Java to Australia, was awarded the navy cross yesterday at United States naval headquarters.

Wassell, a former missionary from Little Rock, Ark., was cited by a high ranking officer for "gallantry and splendid leadership."

Egg-Sized Hailstones Kill Pigs

RUSSELLS POINT — (INS) — The nearby Indian Lake community today totaled up the cost of a gale that struck yesterday accompanied by hailstones large as eggs that killed swine and poultry and damaged buildings, vehicles and communication lines.

Local residents termed it the worst storm in 15 years, but no personal injuries were reported.

The report on the size of hailstones came from Russell Alloway, state game protector, who said he had received word that many young pigs and chickens were killed by the stones.

SUGAR RATION REGISTRATION STARTS TODAY

County's Elementary School Children Leave Classes Early for 4 Days.

Mansfield and Richland county elementary school children got off early from school this afternoon but, because of their traditional sweet tooth, they wondered if it was worth it all. The occasion was the start of consumer registration in advance of sugar rationing.

In Mansfield, dismissal time was moved from 3:30 to 2:30, and in county schools, the students ordinarily dismissed at 3:45 were to leave their classes before 3, as the teachers took on their duties as sugar registrars.

Sale of sugar, which has been frozen for a week, will be resumed tomorrow, but only to those who have registered and obtained ration cards showing they are entitled to make the purchases. The limit henceforth — or until the government changes the amount — is one-half pound per person each week.

To expedite the registration, those consumers with surnames starting from A to E were to register this afternoon or evening. The registration will continue for three more days under the following schedule:

Tuesday — those with names from F to K; Wednesday—L to R; Thursday—S. to Z.

In county schools the registration hours are from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. daily. In city schools, the hours are from 2:30 to 5, and from 6 to 9. Registrants should go to the elementary school nearest their homes.

James Bailey, county rationing coordinator, emphasized that everyone should register regardless of the amount of sugar he has on hand, since the same rationing books will be used later for other commodities.

HAS 'ALERT'

San Francisco Bay Area Has 45-Minute Blackout.

SAN FRANCISCO —(U.P.)— The army's fourth interceptor command announced today that the presence of an "unidentified target," later found to be friendly, resulted in a 45-minute blackout for the San Francisco bay area last night.

The navy announced a civilian workman was killed during the blackout at the Mare island navy yard by the accidental discharge of a gun.

The blackout was the eighth for the area since the outbreak of the war with Japan.

The blackout was ordered at 11:15 and lifted at midnight.

FOUR MORE

Quartet of Destroyers Glide Down Ways At New Jersey Shipyards.

KEARNY, N. J.—(AP)—A quartet of destroyers, four more American contributions of seapower to the United Nations' drive to defeat the Axis, glided down the ways into the Hackensack river yesterday in 50 minutes. The fighting ships, all 90 per cent completed, will be turned over to the navy at an early date. They are the Fletcher, Radford, Mervine and Quick.

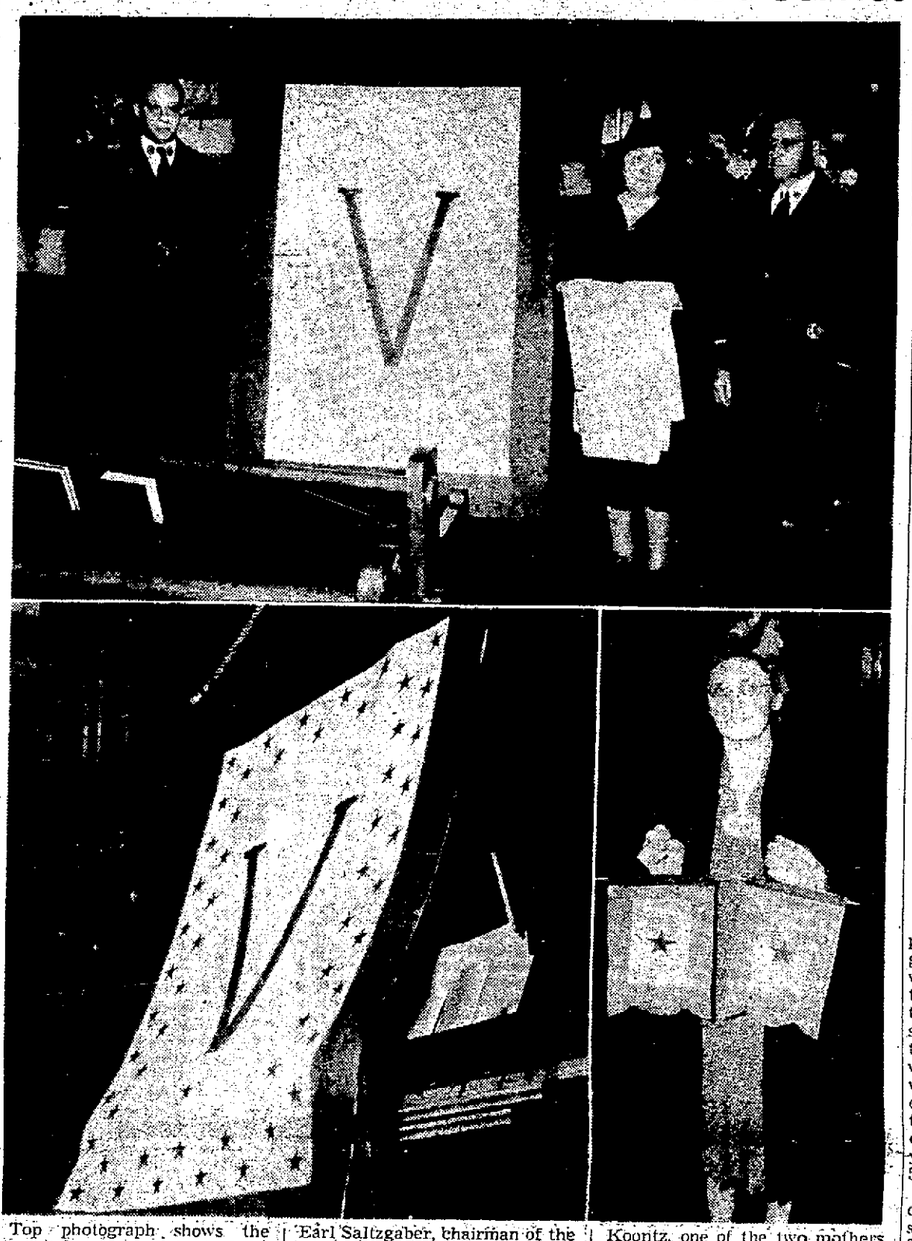
SET RECORD

Lake Freighters Move 7,000,000 Tons of Ore in April.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— In April this year 12.6 per cent more iron ore was moved on the Great Lakes than in any previous April.

The Lake Superior Iron Ore association said today the shipments totaled 7,789,182 tons, contrasting with the previous record high of 6,918,914 tons set in April last year.

As Church Honors Members In Armed Service



Top photograph shows the banner honoring members of the congregation now in their country's service immediately after its unveiling last night at the First Lutheran church. From left to right are Sam Fox, commander of McVey Post, American Legion, Mrs. Carl Sattler, who unveiled the banner, and Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland Victory Civic committee. Lower left photograph showed the banner after each of the 55 blue stars on its red-bordered field of white was unveiled by a member of each of the 53 families with a member now in service. In lower right photograph is Mrs. Charles Koontz, one of the two mothers who unveiled two stars because each has two sons in the Army. The two small home banners she is exhibiting are identical to those presented to each family. Mrs. Cora B. Reichert was the other mother who unveiled two stars and was given two home banners.

Service Banner Unveiled At Impressive Church Service

Unveiled last night at a solemn impressive ceremony witnessed by more than 800 persons, a large banner bearing 55 stars occupies a place of honor today in the First Lutheran church in lasting tribute to the 55 members of the congregation now serving their country.

It was a touching scene as mothers and fathers and brothers and sisters of these 54 men and boys—and one girl, walked to the front of the church and removed from the banner a small white patch, unveiling a blue star.

Two mothers—Mrs. Cora B. Reichert and Mrs. Charles Koontz, unveiled two stars each, for each has two sons in the Army. Mrs. Reichert is the mother of Lieut. Earl T. Reichert and Private Donavon Reichert, and Mrs. Koontz is the mother of Capt. Dale Uhlich and Lieut. Raymond Uhlich.

One father, Alex Grassick, unveiled a star for his son, Paul Grassick, who is one of the eight Richland county men who were on Bataan peninsula and are believed to be prisoners of the Japanese.

Rev. G. E. Swoyer made particular reference to Paul Grassick in his sermon.

"It is men like him, men from the shops and the stores and the farms, who are manifesting a 100 Injured in Series of Oklahoma Tornadoes.

TULSA, Okla. —(INS)— Storm-battered northeast Oklahoma today counted 22 dead and nearly 100 injured as the result of a series of three freak tornadoes which struck a dozen communities within an hour.

The tornadoes followed closely on the savage twister which just a week ago struck the boom defense town of Pryor, killing 64 persons, and injuring more than 300.

The most recent storms struck at small communities and farm districts late Saturday. Hardest hit was a Negro farming area in Okfuskee county, where 12 persons, including five children, were killed.

German, Italian Natives Here Denied Citizenship Papers

Applications of German and Italian aliens seeking naturalization papers in Richland county were ordered held up today by federal immigration authorities as a class of citizenship candidates prepared to go before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston Wednesday for their final examinations.

Thomas C. Hoffman, county naturalization clerk, said he had been instructed to withhold the petitions of nearly 50 foreign-born residents of the county who had expected to take the final tests for papers Wednesday.

The original class of 80 candidates for citizenship was reduced to 31 by the federal order barring Germans and Italians from the final hearing, Hoffman said.

It was the first time since the first World war that natives of Germany have been denied a chance to become citizens. Hoffman said that although he had received no definite instructions about how long the ban will be in effect, he expects it to hold until the war is over.

Fourteen of the group of 31 applicants to go before the court Wednesday are natives of Yugoslavia. Five are English and Canadian, three are natives of Greece, two are from Scotland, two from Albania, two from Czechoslovakia, and one each from Russia and Poland.

Immigration officers from Youngstown will be here Wednesday to assist with examinations for the applicants. Judge Huston will grant citizenship or deny it on the basis of evidence presented to the court.

STARTS CHECK OF AAA BALLOTS

County Committee Looks Into 94 Challenged Votes Cast at Wheat Election.

With the government wheat marketing quotas approved for another year by a wide margin in Saturday's referendum, the Richland county AAA committee today began checking 94 challenged ballots which were held out of the tabulation Saturday night.

The contested votes were cast by farmers who allegedly did not have the necessary 15 acres of wheat to entitle them to participate in the referendum. The voters' wheat quotas for this year will be checked in the county AAA records to determine whether the votes are legal, Chairman Guy L. Taylor of the county AAA committee said today.

While the quotas received a 57.6 per cent favorable vote in Ohio and at least 80 per cent of the national vote, Richland coun-

Confer Today On 'Swap Drive' Plan To Save On Tires

Seeking information to help solve Mansfield's problem of transportation facilities in the face of a declining automobile tire supply, Mayor W. J. Locke and G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the Civilian Defense committee, went to Columbus today.

Mayor Locke and Kalbfleisch made the trip to meet with state officials and representatives of industries who will confer with the mayors and defense officials of 60 Ohio municipalities, known as the "target areas" of the state.

Gov. John W. Bricker, in issuing the invitation to mayors, said the conference would be devoted principally to regulation of work hours to coincide with available transportation facilities. The conference also was to study means of encouraging cooperative use of privately-owned automobiles in the conservation of rubber.

Mayor Locke, before leaving for Columbus, said that Mansfield did not face any immediate need to stagger working hours or school

RATIONING FOR RAILROAD, BUS TRAVEL HINTED

Washington Studies Move To Prevent Breakdown of U. S. Transportation System.

WIDEN GAS SALE CURBS

County-Wide System of Doling Out Motor Fuel Planned For Mid-Summer.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Rationing of all railroad and bus tickets was forecast by government officials today as the office of defense transportation strove to prevent a complete breakdown of the nation's transportation system.

Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman announced Sunday that "restrictions" on train and bus services are "imminent."

It was learned that plans are being discussed to set up a system where "certificates of necessity" would be required before a person could purchase a train or bus ticket. The certificates reportedly would not be issued unless a person could show an urgent need to travel.

Meanwhile, it was said that plans are being made to extend gasoline rationing on a nation-wide basis when a permanent system is set up July 1. Gasoline rationing goes into effect in eastern seaboard states May 15, but on a temporary basis. On July 1, it was learned, a permanent system will be set up and then it will be extended to the rest of the country. It will allow motorists to drive a certain number of miles a year, probably something over 5,000.

Petroleum Coordinator Ickes declared today that the overland shipment of oil is still falling 400,000 barrels per day below demand, even with present restrictions on gasoline and fuel oil consumption.

Appearing before the petroleum subcommittee of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, Ickes disclosed that his office will make recommendations tomorrow on the degree of gasoline curtailment which is believed necessary for the east coast at the present time.

The petroleum coordinator testified that stocks of crude oil and petroleum products on the eastern seaboard continue to decline.

"The situation at the time of my previous testimony was not good," Ickes asserted. "Since then it has become worse."

He declared that on Feb. 14, stocks of crude oil and products on the east coast were 7,500,000 barrels below a year ago. On April 11, approximately a month later, he said that inventories had declined to a point where they were 15,200,000 barrels under last year.

READY TO ACT

House Group Set to Study Income Limitations.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house ways and means committee hopes to complete work on the corporation tax schedules of the new war revenue bill today so that it can plunge into the controversial subject of a $25,000 individual income limitation.

Committee members said President Roosevelt's proposal —that no American retain for his own use more than $25,000 a year after he settles taxes— stood little chance of favorable treatment. Opponents of the plan contend that it would be extremely hard on persons who have large insurance policies, those financing large homes, and those wishing to make large contributions to charity.

The committee completed last week all of the corporation issues remaining except the amount, if any, corporations will receive in rebates after the war on the taxes they pay now.

Enemy Starts Land Offensive In New Guinea

Strive To Carry War To Back Door Of China; U. S. Forces On Island Gird For Clash With Column Heading For South Coast.

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(AP)—A Japanese reconnaissance force has withdrawn to its original base at Lae in New Guinea after a 27-mile penetration up the Markham valley in search of airdrome sites. But another enemy column held its position 15 miles south of nearby Salamaua, Australian dispatches said today.

(By Associated Press)

Heavy Japanese reinforcements were hurled today into the drive northeast from ruined Mandalay up the severed Burma road in an effort to take the war to China's fiercely-defended soil on a second front which already has been pushed through the mountains within 30 miles of the Yunnan province frontier.

At the same time a new penetration of invasion units inland across New Guinea was timed with increased Japanese air raids on Port Moresby and suggested that the Japanese might be ready for the big struggle for control of the important south coast of New Guinea, across the Coral sea from Australia.

On both fronts there were indications that defense forces —one commanded by an American and the other including United States men and equipment—were being marshaled for stiff resistance.

United States army bombers hammered home a new blow last night at the rear of the Japanese thrust through Burma, setting the docks of Japanese-captured Rangoon afire.

"A number of heavy bombs were dropped on the target," a communique announced. "One caused a large explosion and fire resulted in the middle of the dock area."

A Chinese army spokesman emphasized that the Chinese troops under Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell were still in the fight. He declared that "only a part of the Chinese expeditionary force" in Burma had been in actual combat with the Japanese thus far.

The implication was that Stilwell still had other forces to hurl into the fight in the mountains in a delaying action until reinforcements reached the frontier.

The spokesman said Chinese forces had withdrawn from Mandalay "because of strategic considerations" and pledged that they would regain the city.

Chinese forces were reported still holding out at Taunggyi, 100 miles southeast of Mandalay on the flank of the Japanese column which drove north to Lashio and the Burma road. There was no indication whether they were cut off.

Chinese dispatches told of sharp fighting at Kweichieh, 58 miles north of Lashio, that put the Japanese within 30 miles of China's back door and represented a Japanese advance of 25 miles in about 48 hours.

A Reuters dispatch from Chungking said the Japanese were attacking violently in one place only 23 miles from the Yunnan border.

BATTLE: British, Germans Trade Blows At Sea Power

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Pierre Laval has promised Adolf Hitler use of French military and naval forces in the last phases of his offensive against the United Nations, the Independent French News agency reported today in dispatches from Ankara.

(By Associated Press)

In a battering exchange of blows at sea power, the British declared today that the RAF left Hamburg's docks and shipyards ablaze and pounded the Nazi U-boat nest at St. Nazaire last night, and the Germans said their air force raided Alexandria, British eastern Mediterranean fleet base.

The German high command said that in other operations off Europe's far northern coast German warships, submarines and planes fought a running battle "for days on end in storm and high sea and ice" against strongly guarded Allied convoys along the supply line to Russia.

With the Allied account of the sea fight yet to be told, the Germans hurried in first with their version which claimed that during the attacks a 10,000-ton British cruiser was sunk by a submarine and six of the convoyed ships, totaling 37,500 tons, were sent to the bottom.

Several destroyers and four supply ships were damaged in the attacks which involved more than one convoy, the German version said.

It reported that one German destroyer in a flotilla said to have "accepted battle with a superior force of enemy destroyers" was damaged seriously.

The RAF, continuing day and night attacks as spring permits, struck back over the English channel after daybreak on the

ATTACK: Stark Predicts Opening Of New War Fronts

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Opening of a "second, third and even a fifth front" when the time is ripe was advocated today by Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of United States naval forces in European waters.

"Reckless, uncalculated assaults generally lead to disaster," Stark said, "but any calculated risks are justifiable when everything is regulated and carefully planned."

The admiral, who did not indicate when the United Nations would be ready for these extended operations, warned that the Axis submarine menace is still a vital issue, just as it was during the last war.

He recalled that Admiral Sims in 1917 told him that the war with Germany then would end in the fall of 1918 cautioning him that "if we did not lick the submarine we are going to be licked ourselves because we will lack materials and cannot carry on the war without material."

"The same issue exists today," said Admiral Stark.

Currently there is the closest cooperation between the American and British navies, not only to end the submarine menace but also heels of the night raids on Hamburg, St. Nazaire and the Nazi-used airdromes of northern France and the low countries.

German night bombers, attacking about 30 strong, concentrated on the southwestern English cathedral town of Exeter for the second time since the start of raids which Berlin communiques flatly call reprisal bombings. The British said five of the raiders were shot down and two others were knocked from the sky over northern France.

The British raid on the great northern German port and naval base of Hamburg, attacked for the first time since April 17, and on the submarine base at St. Nazaire underlined Britain's increased effort to keep the German sea power crippled and landlocked.

Air alarms which send ground defenses into action shortly before dawn in the French port of Marseille and the big French naval base at Toulon, 40 miles farther east on the French Mediterranean coast, added a note of mystery to the night's aerial operations.

Some observers suggested that the alarms might have been caused by British planes scouting for information on the location of French fleet units which, if they fell into German hands, might upset the whole lineup of naval power in the Mediterranean or even the Atlantic.

Report 3 Nazi Warships Damaged

LONDON — (INS) — The German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen were listed today by the admiralty and the RAF "as out of action for some time to come." The warships were not heavily damaged in their sensational escape from the French port of Brest but have since been further damaged by RAF bombers, according to a point admiralty and RAF communique.

The statement strongly intimated that the three heavy units of the German fleet would be out of service throughout the summer.

The Gneisenau has been located at the former Polish naval station at Gydnia on the Baltic and serial photography revealed the whole forecastle area of the vessel severely damaged, according to the communique. The Scharnhorst was reported in the German naval base at Kiel in Drydock, while the Prinz Eugen was said to be in Trondheim fjord, and in no condition to put to sea.

Report Spreading Unrest In France

(By United Press)

Two French generals, unable to support the Vichy government longer because of Pierre Laval, have arrived at British Gibraltar, presumably to join the Free French cause, Spanish sources reported today.

The report, which was unconfirmed, came from La Linea, on the border which separates Spain from Gibraltar.

It said, also without confirmation, that Gen. Charles DeGaulle, Free French leader, had arrived at Gibraltar to confer with the generals.

Vichy itself reported a new outbreak of sabotage and terrorism against the Nazis, and ruthless German repression in occupied France.

Vichy said 15 German soldiers were killed when a train was wrecked near Caen, in the Havre area of the channel coast not far from the scene of a recent sabotage wreck in which 44 German soldiers were killed.

A second train was wrecked, with an unspecified number of casualties, at Bretigny, south of Paris, Vichy said.

It was asserted also that 55 French hostages had been executed at Lille, which is near the Belgian border, in reprisal for the killing of two German soldiers.

The embarrassments of Laval, the arch collaborationist who is now "chief of government" of the Vichy regime, were increased by presence in Vichy of Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, a great hero of the French people, who had escaped from a German fortress and returned home via Switzerland.

Laval, Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, chief of Vichy defense forces, and Fernand De Brinon, Vichy envoy to German authorities at Paris, and Giraud himself conferred Saturday at Moulins, on the border between occupied and unoccupied France, with Otto Abetz, German envoy.

Fliers Downed In Raid Reach Safety

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — Nine British airmen whose planes were shot down in the RAF raid on the German naval base in Trondheim fjord have reached the safety of neutral Sweden after miraculous escapes and terrible hardships.

(Editor's Note: Vichy reported that British planes were over several parts of Denmark last night. One ship was reported shot down at Jutland, with five members of the crew killed and three taken prisoner.)

Swedish authorities revealed today that the men had covered 30 to 50 miles from the points where their planes crashed or they parachuted to earth during the attack last week on the heavily fortified Nazi base on the west coast of Norway.

The RAF crewmen plowed through snow waist deep in mountain passes on the border, travelling in groups of twos and threes and dodging German troops throughout the journey.

It was assumed they would be interned.

Russia Promises Aid To Ukraine

MOSCOW—(AP)—Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, in a proclamation dropped over enemy occupied terrain by plane today, urged the inhabitants to carry on the battle behind the German lines and told the people of the Ukraine "we are coming to liberate you."

With the ground rapidly firming for a summer offensive, the commander of Soviet Russia's southern armies urged the inhabitants "at the approach of detachments of the Red army to show them the safe routes for offensive."

The proclamation was headed "For the Soviet Ukraine."

to conduct aggressive war in other spheres."

Admiral Stark said the building of both American merchant vessels and naval ships was accelerating. Last year, he pointed out, 30 warships were launched. This year there are to be 100 and succeeding years will show a continued increase, he said.

Regarding the opening of a second front, Admiral Stark said:

"I favor a second, third and even a fifth front as soon as we are able to launch them effectively. Reckless, uncalculated assaults are justifiable when everything is regulated and carefully planned."

He said he looked forward to the time when offensives along these lines can be launched.

Report 7 Allied Ships Sunk By Subs

NEW YORK — (AP) — Undersea raiders picked off seven Allied merchant vessels in the Atlantic last week to bring to 157 the officially announced total of United Nations ships sunk in that area since Pearl Harbor.

The Axis submarines got six victims off the U. S. east coast between April 27 and May 3, making that section's war total 85, and one in the Caribbean for a war total there of 38. No new sinkings were reported in Canadian and South American waters, where 24 and 10 vessels, respectively, fell prey to subs since Dec. 7.

Three of last week's sinkings were of U. S. ships; one each of British, Panamanian, Swedish and Dutch registry.

GERMAN REFUGEE KILLS WIFE, SELF

Former Newspaper Publisher and Wife Found Dead in Apartment.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Dr Felix Pinner, former financial editor of the Berliner Tageblatt, and his wife, Gertrude, were dead today in a double suicide attributed to the turning of his former great Berlin newspaper into a Nazi mouthpiece.

Dr. Pinner and his wife came to America soon after the outbreak of the war. Two sons are in the U. S. army.

Dr. Pinner, 62, liquidated his assets, wrote two letters, then, last night in their apartment, turned on the gas that killed himself and his 56-year-old wife.

great heroic spirit," Rev. Swoyer said. "They are making the sacrifices which insure that America will see this thing through. They are the greatest soldiers of all."

Small banners bearing one blue star were presented to each family to be displayed in the windows of their homes. The large banners and the 55 small ones were made by the Earnest Workers of the church, and Mrs. Earl Dye, president of the organization, made the formal presentation.

The banner was unveiled by Mrs. Carl Sattler, representing the Women's Relief Corps and the Navy Mothers' Club. She is the mother of Lieut. George Sattler of the U. S. Marines.

Private First Class Robert C. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marks, who is home on furlough from Camp Davis, at Wilmington, N. C., gave the acceptance.

T. D. Brown, Spanish American war veteran and vice president of the church council, conducted the roll call, and the unveiling of the stars was in charge of Sam Fox, commander of McVey Post American Legion, and Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the Richland Victory Civic committee.

Mrs. Koontz presented the home banners, and a committee comprising Brown, Earl Dye, Tulley Grubaugh, and Herman Baer, was in charge of placing the large banner that will remain in the church.

British Reveal How DeGaulle Escaped France

LONDON —(INS)— For the first time the story of how Gen. de Gaulle escaped from France before the capitulation has been told to Britain.

Today, leader of more than 250,000 Free French soldiers, sailors, and airmen as well as idol of millions of sympathizers throughout the world, de Gaulle was formerly a brigadier-general in command of a tank and motorized division that saw action on the Meuse.

It has been long known that he escaped to Britain when France capitulated but no details of his flight have ever been released.

Speaking in London recently Maj.-Gen. Spears, British liaison officer of the Free French army and now British military representative in Syria, described how de Gaulle came to see him off in Bordeaux in the middle of June, 1940:

"I had an English plane waiting for my return to Britain—and the engine was running," he said. "Gen. de Gaulle came to the airdrome ostensibly to bid me farewell, and at the last moment—just as we were about to take off—swung aboard the machine and came with us to England."

out in the talk indicate that an investigation is warranted."

The police chief said that he had learned that the youth who had been arrested was probably hiding in a sugar barrel when the first detail entered the store.

Police on the third shift, which came on duty at 11 p. m., made the arrest and brought the youth to headquarters for questioning. They said that he had admitted responsibility for two of six burglaries committed within the past four days. No charges have been filed against the youth as yet.

The colored youth, according to police, admitted entering the Bushnell street school late Saturday and taking $4.50 worth of defense stamps and $5 in cash and the Red and White store on North Main street Thursday from which he allegedly stole $1 in cash and some tobacco.

The Bushnell street school was but one of five places entered over the week-end.

Harold Oxman, manager of the Maxie Oil company, 33 East Sixth street, reported that four automobile tires valued at $45 had been stolen from his service station. Oxman said that entry was probably made through a window in the service department.

Mrs. E. F. Balliett, 279 West Third street, and Mrs. Frank Taddeo, 516 Daisy street, told police that their homes had been entered but that nothing had been taken. Mrs. Balliett's home was also entered last week.

STARTS CHECK OF AAA BALLOTS

tians voted overwhelmingly against the quotas. The vote here, exclusive of the challenged ballots, was 89 for the quotas and 272 against.

Describing the referendum as "a farce, a fraud, and a joke," Russell T. Kiko, chairman of the Ohio Marketing Quota Protest association, announced today that the association planned to file a suit challenging the validity of the ballot.

He said the action probably would be filed "sometime this week" in the District of Columbia and would name Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard as a party defendant. Members of the protest association are scheduled to meet Tuesday in Columbus to plan the action.

Although Kiko charged that the election officials were AAA representatives and "protesting farmers were not permitted to challenge the voters in a single precinct," Chairman Taylor of the Richland county committee said one opponent of the quotas served on the election board in Mansfield and a number of Protest association members served as challengers in the county Saturday.

Taylor said he asked at least one critic of the program to serve on the board in each of the five county precincts, but only one accepted.

Taylor added that there was more trouble with opponents of the quotas in Richland county than elsewhere in Ohio. Voting here was delayed two hours Saturday morning when a group of protesting farmers demanded that they be permitted to vote despite the number of acres they have seeded in wheat.

In the Madison township precinct where most of the trouble occurred, 48 ballots were challenged. Only 17 "Yes" votes were cast as against 81 against the quotas.

JAPS REINFORCE BURMA COLUMNS FOR CHINA DRIVE

Make Attempt to Cross Island of New Guinea, Where U. S. Troops Await Them.

was underscored anew by a Japanese air raid on the Burmese Bay of Bengal port of Akyab and shipping in its harbor less than 100 miles from the Bengal border.

On the island front north of Australia United Nations fighters planes intercepted an attack on Port Moresby yesterday by 12 Japanese bombers and eight fighters and, in a defensive battle which a communique described as brilliant, shot down three of the bombers and one of the escorting planes.

Fifteen other Japanese planes were reported downed during other scattered battles over the week-end in which United States and Australian fliers damaged three Japanese transports at Rabaul, New Britain, and a four-engined flying boat in the Solomon islands.

The threat of a Japanese overland smash toward Port Moresby, from Lae on the northeast coast was being watched closely. The Japanese were said to have moved 27 miles up the Markham valley from Lae to Nadzab over the interior route from which they were flooded by heavy rains during a similar push several weeks ago.

An Australian war correspondent who reported the advance suggested that it was for reconnaissance only in the inland area where the Japanese might hope to set up advanced airfields closer to Port Moresby. There was no contact between the Japanese forces and Allied troops.

General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that the Manila bay fortress of Corregidor continued under intermittent artillery fire and aerial bombardment, with its big guns still thundering back their defiance to the Japanese.

On Mindanao island in the southern Philippines, the communique said the Japanese were continuing operations following up their recent landings on the northwest coast.

Japanese broadcasts said their troops had pushed ashore at Cagayan and Tagoloan, 75 and 100 miles north of Parang, where earlier landings were made.

These Tokyo broadcasts estimated that United States and Philippine forces still holding out on Mindanao numbered about 30,000 men.

Moslems Pledge To Fight Japanese

NEW DELHI —(INS) —India's 80,000,000 Moslems were pledged today by their leader, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, to fight the Japanese —"with tooth and claw, with sticks and stones and bare hands, if necessary."

The president of India's powerful Moslem league made this pledge following the action of the Hindu-dominated all-India national congress executive committee which voted "non-violent" opposition to invading forces.

"The congress is engaging in political blackmail against Great Britain," Jinnah declared. "They are taking advantage of the fact that a terrible enemy is almost at India's door and are attempting to force the British to agree to the so-called national government in which Moslems would be ruled by Hindus as they are now ruled by the British."

If the British will arm the Moslems, and assure them a post-war independent Moslem state," Jinnah said, "Moslems will stand side by side with British forces and hurl the enemy back with invincible strength."

While the Hindus compose 75 per cent of India's population, Jinnah pointed out, in the strictly Moslem areas the Moslems compose 75 per cent of the inhabitants. In these districts, he said, the Moslems should have their own government.

Japs Push Attack Against Chinese

NEW DELHI — (INS) — Japanese troops have launched a fierce attack against Chinese positions 65 miles north of Lashio, Chungking reports said today.

Chinese forces were said to be resisting stubbornly. Casualties on both sides were heavy.

Between 13,000 and 14,000 Japanese have been killed in Burma during the past month, while Chinese losses were between 3,000 and 4,000, a spokesman said.

REGISTER NEW GROUP OF JAPS

Three West Coast States List Aliens for Evacuation.

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Registration began today for the new group of 6,500 Japanese in Washington, California and Arizona affected by the latest exclusion orders issued by Western Defense Commander Lieut. Gen. J. L. De Witt.

The latest evacuation orders brought the army's vast program to about the half-way mark. Of the estimated 112,000 Pacific coast alien and American-born Japanese to be removed to inland areas, approximately half have been affected by the 38 exclusion orders issued to date.

State Acts as Firefighters Hold Blaze in Check.

EAST GREENWICH, R. I. —(INS)—All Rhode Island state forests, with the exception of Goddard park, were closed today to the public as weary firefighters held in check the state's worst woodland blaze which has caused an estimated $3,000,000 damage.

Gov. J. Howard McGrath issued a proclamation closing the forests, as the biggest peril in the East Greenwich, Coventry fire near the Connecticut border centered in the Bowen Hill section of Rice City.

The flames were reported in check as civilian defense workers were ordered to assemble in armoris in Providence and Pawtuckett, and other units were placed on the alert in 37 cities and towns.

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

MAYBE I shouldn't admit it, but there are a few things about this writing job I really like.

F'instance, I like the part where . . . after all the writin' and the routine is done . . . I just set back and think about things in general. (Oh, yes, that's part of the job, too.)

Doesn't matter much what I think about. Sometimes I concentrate on one thing. Sometimes I think of lots of things, one right after the other.

Usually, when I get to thinkin', I send down for some beer. Seems a glass of beer not only touches the spot but it also sort of helps the thinkin' mood along.

It's such a peaceful, friendly beverage. Sort of honest and human. And it tastes good.

I like to hold my glass of beer up to the light and look through it. That beautiful, golden-amber color kind of fascinates me. Reminds me of the sunny barley fields where beer gets its start.

After all . . . when you stop to think about it . . . beer is a simple, natural thing. I read somewhere that all it's made of is good, wholesome farm grains and water and a little yeast . . . with hops for flavor. Nature's process of fermentation and the age-old art of the brewer does the rest.

I guess that's why beer is so wholesome. It really is the beverage of moderation. You just can't imagine anybody getting into trouble drinking a few glasses of beer.

Well, here I am . . . going on and on thinking and talking about beer. Probably could go on for hours. That's the way I am when I set back and get to thinking about things.

And by the way, taking it easy and "just thinkin'" is fun. Try it sometime . . . quiet and comfortable like.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

There's one good thing about the week-end war news these days, the Allies have reached that point of achievement where the breaks increasingly are coming their way, and not every Monday is a blue one—an indication that we really are getting ahead with our job.

The report since Saturday has contained some real encouragement, although the Japs have mixed a nasty dose of medicine for us in Burma. The fall of the city of Mandalay — famous because of Kipling's immortal song and strategically important as a center of transportation—has added greatly to the gravity of the Anglo-Chinese position.

Barring some fortuitous and lucky circumstance, the Allies are likely to lose all Burma. This means, of course, that the Japanese will have secured another powerful base which, among other things, helps safeguard the right flank of their conquests in Indonesia, and is a potential menace to India.

However, to my mind, the most serious aspect of this development is that the invaders not only will have cut China off from the Burmese oil which she was dependent, and severed her Burma road lifeline to the outside world, but will be in position to strike at Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek from the rear. Should this happen, China's position will be much more difficult than at any time since the Chino-Japanese war began.

A fine entry on the other side of the ledger is the British announcement that three great German warships — the battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst and the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen—have been damaged so seriously that they probably will be out of action for a long time. This cuts Hitler's fleet of capital ships in half.

The knocking out of these ships will render our task of transporting vital war material to Russia vastly easier in the developing crisis.

Another bright spot is the disclosure by Major General Maxwell, chief of the United States mission to North Africa, that American service troops in steadily increasing strength are supporting the British desert army which is standing between Nazi Field Marshal Rommel and Egypt and the Suez canal. This means that the Allies are getting set to counter the offensive which Rommel likely will undertake in conjunction with Hitler's effort to smash the Russians and reach the supplies of the Caucasus and middle east.

Maxwell also said construction of the great American-built arsenal in Eritrea on the Red sea is getting ahead so well that operations will start there before long That arsenal should be a tower of strength in the coming struggle, for it is strategically situated at the southern end of the Red sea

The middle eastern theater is one of the most important in the world right now, for it holds the resources which Hitler needs to prevent a collapse of his fighting machine. It also is a strategic base which dominates this whole vast zone where east meets west.

TWO BOMBERS CRASH; ARMY STARTS PROBE

Nine Officers Are Killed and Three Injured on West Coast.

(By United Press)

PENDLETON, Ore.—An army board of inquiry today studied the burned wreckage of a flying fortress bomber which crashed on a routine training flight two miles north of Meachim, Ore., killing six of its eight crewmen.

The four-motored Boeing plane, attached to Pendleton field, crashed and exploded in the wooded mountains yesterday, while circling for an emergency landing.

The dead were: First Lieut. Joseph T. H. Leacock, Baton Rouge, La.; Second Lieut. James W. Brown, Pleasantville, La., Sgt. William A. Forrest, Salsbury, N. C.; Staff Sgt. Harry G. Cameron, Medford, Mass.; Staff Sgt. Victor A. Carmichael, Wine Wood, Pa., and Corp. Chester A. Nowack, Altena, Mich.

Technical Sgt. Wesley E. Wallace, Philadelphia, and Sgt. John H. Starr of Littleton, Mass., were thrown from the plane and injured seriously. Wallace limped three miles through the woods on Blue Mountain to notify authorities. Starr's injuries were reported "critical."

TACOMA, Wash. —(U P)— Three officers were killed and a fourth injured seriously yesterday, when their army bomber crashed at McChord field.

Killed were: First Lieut. William E. Comber, Frankfort, Pa., Second Lieut. Adolph T. Frerisch, Fairfax, Mo., and Corp. Frank W. Irwin, San Benito, Tex.

Sgt. Randolph T. Correll, Perryton, Tex., was injured seriously.

BOISE, Ida.—(U P)—Army planes searched today for a missing bomber, which army officers feared had crashed with its crew of six on a routine flight from Gowen field to Spokane, Wash.

UP AND DOWN THE STREET

A California woman appealed to Mansfielders today to help her find information about Jacob and Eleanor Gonzales Wolfe who lived in Mansfield about a century ago and were buried here. The request came from Miss Sarah Jeanette Hodge, 55 North Pasadena ave., Pasadena, Calif. Miss Hodge said the Wolfe home was on the old West Market street in Mansfield and their son, Samuel, served as sheriff and auditor of Richland county. Miss Hodge wants to know when Mrs. Wolfe was born and when she died and where her husband was buried. She said she learned that Mrs. Wolfe was buried in the Mansfield cemetery, but her grave is not marked.

Only a few hours after he had finished serving 36 days in Richland county jail on a shoplifting charge, Robert Goede, Chicago, was back in jail on a similar charge. Goede was released from the county jail Saturday morning and was arrested in the afternoon when Montgomery and Ward company employes charged him with stealing six shirts. His first sentence had been for taking two tobacco pouches from the Woolworth store. Goede was sentenced to another 36 days in the county jail when arraigned in municipal court this morning.

The scarcity of teachers is expected to become serious in the state this year, but it's already a major problem at Butler where one place on the staff has been vacant for three weeks. County Supt. Boyd Robinson and the Butler board so far have been unsuccessful in finding a successor for Miss Elizabeth Swisher, commercial instructor in the high school, who resigned to take a government job. Robinson said he had contacted most of the teacher agencies in Ohio without finding a commercial teacher. Home economics, commercial, and vocational teachers are expected to be the hardest to find.

CHEMIST SAYS FORMULA LOST DURING FIGHT

Police Capture, Charge Two With Assault, Robbery and Kidnaping.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Two New Jersey men were charged early today with assault, robbery and the kidnaping of a Brooklyn research chemist who told police he had perfected a process for the manufacture of synthetic rubber but that it had disappeared during a scuffle with his alleged abductors.

Detective James Kane said the victim, Samuel B. Sklar, told him he was lured into an automobile by two men who said they were taking him to "police headquarters" for questioning and that when he protested they struck him in the head.

Sklar managed to escape from the moving automobile a few blocks away from his home and his screams brought police and caused sounding of an alarm for the car, whose license plate had been noted by passerby.

The chemist was taken to Jewish hospital while police across the Manhattan bridge laid in wait for the car, it having appeared headed for Manhattan. Patrolman Herman Lowenstein spotted the car later and arrested its occupants.

After hours of questioning, the prisoners were booked on the three charges as Samuel Paris, 39, of Bradley Beach, N. J., who described himself as superintendent of a hosiery mill, and Julius Suhoke, 35, of Paterson, N. J., who said he was a machine inspector at the Federal Ship Building and Dry Dock company, Kearny, N. J.

Sklar, suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations of the face, was quoted by Kane as insisting he had his rubber formula on his person when his abductors forced him into their car, but that it was missing when he effected his escape.

MURRAY DENIES RIFT WITH FDR

Says He's 'Not at Odds' Despite Reported Disagreement on Wage-Freezing.

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH—President Philip Murray of the CIO said last night that he and President Roosevelt are "not at odds" despite their reported disagreement on the wage-freezing issue.

"I would lose my shirt today to help the president win the war," he said. "I am one of those persons who might disagree with the president of the United States but the fact that I have disagreed with the president about policy does not mean that such disagreement has brought about a parting of the ways."

His statement followed a closed meeting of the steel workers organizing committee staff officers, which received a report on the "Little Steel" industry wage case, now before the war labor board.. The case involved demands for a general $1-a-day wage increase in little steel plants.

The SWOC leaders adopted a resolution authorizing union officers to prosecute "the little steel case in such a manner as they deem to be in the interest of the SWOC."

Murray earlier told his own local that he would seek re-election as vice president of the United Mine Workers (CIO) despite the opposition of followers of John L. Lewis, president of the UMW.

REPORT ARMY PROTESTS PLAN TO HALT 'QUICKIE' COMMISSIONS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Faced with a growing shortage of officers for the burgeoning army, the war department was reported today to be bringing heavy pressure to bear against legislation that would halt the issuance of "quickie" commissions to civilians.

The proposal was slated to go before the house on Wednesday in the form of an amendment by Rep. Faddis (D-Pa.) to a senate-approved bill doubling the $21 monthly pay of army "buck" privates and granting increases to other ratings up to and including second lieutenants.

One member of the senate military committee who asked not to be quoted by name said war department officials had expressed the opinion that adoption of the Faddis amendment would hamper rapid expansion of the army by making it impossible to release trained officers for field duty and replace them in administrative posts with qualified civilians.

Faddis charged that favoritism had been shown in some instances and that high ranking commissions had been given to men who lacked the necessary qualifications and experience.

This senator said, however, that he was convinced that such instances were exceptional, adding there was no doubt that the army needed all of the officers it could get as quickly as it could get them.

Aside from the Faddis proposal, little controversy was expected in the house over the pay increase bill. Trouble was predicted, however for two other important military measures, one to establish women's branches of the army, navy and marines and the other to provide family allowance payments for dependents of drafted men.

WIDOW, 81, DIES

Mrs. Lola Krause Succumbs After Long Illness.

Mrs. Lola D. Krause, 81, widow of the late John Henry Krause, pioneer Mansfield grocer and member of the firm of Krause brothers, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 196 West Fifth street, following a lingering illness.

Born at Fdericktown, May 11, 1860, she came to Mansfield with her parents when a child. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church. No close relatives survive excepting one nephew and several cousins.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be conducted at 2.30 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Mansfield mausoleum.

TRIBUTE PAID CAPT. PARSEL

SHELBY — Memorial services for the late Capt. Elmer Parsel of the United States Air Corps were held Sunday night at the Plymouth high school auditorium.

A host of his relatives, former friends and village officials of Plymouth gathered in the auditorium to pay tribute to the former Plymouth youth who was killed in an airplane accident in India last month.

Capt. Parsel, native of Plymouth, had been awarded the distinguished flying cross just before word was received that he had been killed.

U. S. Employment Agency Plans To Curtail Service

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio housewives may lose a friend that has helped them clear household bottlenecks.

Women whose maids failed to show up at housecleaning time or on wash day long have relied on the U. S. employment service to supply them emergency help. Now a budget curtailment may force the service to limit its activities to finding workers for essential war industries and farmers, State Director Wade Hammond asserted today.

"If our budget is cut, it will mean the end of the 'business as usual' policy," Hammond explained. "We'll have to curtail drastically our service to non-essential industries. It may eliminate many services which have 'no direct bearing on the war effort."

A large portion of the organization's facilities has been devoted to the domestic field, he reported, adding that this probably would be the first hit by a tightening of the employment program.

2-WEEK ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Mrs. Katherine Lang, 54, Dies At Home Near Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE—Mrs. Katherine Lang, 54, died at her home near here yesterday after an illness of two weeks. She was a native of Loudonville.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Florence Roller, Ruth, Beulah and Naomi Lang at home, and two sons, Rex and John Lang at home: four step children also survive, Private Glenn Lang of Rantoul, Ill., Walter and Sadie Lang and Mrs. J. C. Dilgard, all of Cleveland.

Two sisters, Mrs. Stella Hunter, and Miss Bessie Yarman, and a brother, Leo Yarman, Mansfield, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Loudonville Lutheran church. The body will be moved to the family residence from the Elliott Funeral home in Millersburg at noon Tuesday.

REACH ACCORD

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Sixty employes of the Aluminum Company of America, out on strike since Friday, resumed work today pending a decision by war labor board officials who have taken jurisdiction over the dispute.

Alex Balint, regional director of the CIO Mine, Mill, and Smelter workers union said the strike started when a furnace tender was suspended for an alleged "act of violence" against a supervisor.

Send-Offs for the Soldiers

EVERYONE likes to think that his own town is just a bit ahead of other communities, Mansfielders no less than citizens of any other city.

But it begins to look as though Mansfield could lay undisputed claim to being first in one matter—that of the send-off for soldiers as they leave for the army.

Six times in recent weeks, Mansfielders have interrupted their regular morning routine to jam around Central park to bid the youth of city and county farewell as they go into the army.

Now comes Secretary of War Stimson with the suggestion that communities generally stage public farewells for the soldiers.

Mr. Stimson is a little behind Mansfield in that matter, but we'll be big-hearted about it and endorse his suggestion and hope that towns that are more backward than this one do something about it.

Within a few days after Mansfield's first send-off, Cleveland adopted the system, almost detail for detail. Other cities have followed suit.

Comment of Mansfielders who have been sent on their way to the army in such a manner seems sufficient to warrant the effort—and more.

We're sure Mansfield will keep right on sending its boys to the army with a cheer—and we hope others follow our example. Or should we say we hope they follow Mr. Stimson's suggestion?

Far Eastern Future

WHAT will happen in the Far East after the war? We may assume that Japan will be utterly routed, because this country will not stop until then. Gone will be her newly won possessions: the Philippines, Thailand, Indo-China, the Malay peninsula, the Dutch East Indies, Burma, and the Pacific islands. Probably Manchukuo will be lost to her, perhaps Korea and Formosa.

What of the freed territories? Will they revert to their former owners? In some cases, yes. The Dutch East Indies have been well treated by their Netherland rulers, and if left alone would soon lapse into a mass of quarreling atoms.

The future of the British possessions is more doubtful. Both the Malay and the Burmese showed plainly that, rather than fight for continued English rule, they were willing to take a chance on the Japanese. They will have plenty of opportunity to regret this choice. After Japan is conquered, however, these countries have a good chance to retain their independence. A coaling station or an air base or a fortress like Singapore—though that proved a bruised reed to lean upon—may be held by the British.

England has had it brought home to her, however, that her rule, in spite of its merits, has not been popular in the Malay States and Burma. Also that there is such a thing as having too big an empire. After the final victory, in which she as well as we will share, she is likely to cut her commitments, and to begin that job with the Far East.

The New Rubber

THE latest rubber story is of the Polish refugee count, Waclaw Szukiewicz, pursued over Europe, Africa and South America for the missing ingredient of his formula. Richard Harding of the Cleveland Plain Dealer gives voice to the thought, which has come to many, that only the beautiful lady is lacking to make this one of the better Oppenheim mystery stories.

With due regard to the thrilling romance of the chase, the fact remains that some experts think Szukiewicz's new rubber, made of natural gas, grain and wood pulp or coal, may be one of the good ones.

Every week or so, with or without serious science or roving romance, some new story breaks about synthetic rubber. Some of those now going into production are very good, surpassing natural rubber in wearing qualities.

By 1945, it seems reasonable to suppose, there will be more than enough synthetic rubber for military purposes, and drivers of automobiles may begin to hope for good new tires. Meantime, national thought should turn more sharply to the conservation of all rubber. Cars should be driven more slowly, last year's overshoes kept safely and cool, small rubber bands used again and again. It's a long time, measured by rubber consumption, till 1945.

Let Bill Do It

SALUTATIONS to Bill Curts of Oakland, Cal., as he enlists in the army air corps to take a crack at the Nazis. Bill is the irreverent fellow who three years ago, at the age of 20, when he visited Heidelberg, wrote in a beer hall guest book, in German, this bit of doggerel:

"The Fuehrer has no wife.
The farmer has no sow,
The butcher has no meat—
And that's the Third Reich."

They beat him up, put him in jail for a month and then kicked him out of the country. It was true when he wrote it, and is true now. When Bill gets his training and goes over, it might be a good idea to let him scribble some more messages and scatter them from the clouds. The German people could appreciate such propaganda.

Sun and the Stove

MRS. HENRY FORD seems to have let herself into one of those unforeseen difficulties which war is bound to create. She had worked out a method of drying fruit by electricity in 48 hours, and thinking she had hit upon a process worth knowing by other women, she described it recently at a meeting of the Women's National Farm and Garden society at Atlantic City.

Civilian Defense officials in Massachusetts promptly criticized the method and Mrs. Ford for promulgating it. It's a perfectly good way to dry fruit, in peace times, but it takes electric power needed otherwise in time of war.

One of the bountiful resources which Americans have always used freely when they could get it was electric power. Electric heat, so clean, strong and dependable, has been coming into ever greater favor with housewives of late years. Not since the last war has there been any worry about turning off the light, except as a matter of holding the monthly bills down. Now all must guard this treasure. The good old sun must dry the fruit, slowly, as of yore. But not for always.

NOT AS CONFIDENT THIS TIME

Let-Down Due for South America

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

Latin America is profiting handsomely on the business it's getting from the United States while we Yankees are so much preoccupied with our war that we can't supply ourselves with a lot of things we previously were in the habit of producing on our own account, and consequently are buying on a vastly increased scale from our neighbors.

There's some wondering, though, if the readjustments that they're making in their various lines of activity won't prove to be of the wrong sort when the conflict's over and they lose a deal of our trade, and if it won't leave 'em in pretty bad economic shape.

We're well aware here, from our last experience, that a post-war period can be about as tough as the war itself, which is why we're making such strenuous efforts not to inflate into a boom that'll pop later on.

Whether or not we'll succeed remains to be seen, but we're trying, anyway. The Latins, however, seem, from all reports, to assume that present prosperous times will continue forevermore, and simply are letting nature take its course.

The southern republics always have been big producers of raw materials, but not manufacturers to any extent. Now we're asking 'em to do that, too, our plants being completely swamped. We're even financing 'em in the establishment of industries and sending a few experts to get 'em started, with local manpower, such as it is.

Mexico, as geographically, the most convenient of the neighboring group, is being industrialized at a very fair lick. Dr. Ezequiel Padilla, the republic's minister of foreign affairs, and Undersecretary Sumner Welles fixed up a mutually highly satisfactory bargain in our two countries' interests during the Washington visit paid by the doctor a short time ago.

Among other things, the Mexicans are to build for us a sizable fleet of wooden cargo boats, wood not being as easy as a metal hull for a submarine to sink.

Brazil's being attended to likewise and so is all the rest of the southern brood, somewhat excepting Argentina and Chile which aren't overly high in Yankee favor, due to their reluctance to break relations with the Axis when we and all the other Latin governments did.

The question is:

What'll happen when peace returns and the United States gets back into its own industrial production and cuts drastically down on its Latin-American spending?

The current endeavor is to make over 18 or 20 almost wholly agricultural and pastoral nationalities, with some little mixture of miners and miscellaneous workers among 'em, into as nearly 100 per cent of factory hands as can be managed.

But when Uncle Samuel ceases to require their factories' output?

The factories will go broke, it would appear, and do it wholesale. It's true, the capitalistic investors' loss will hit Uncle Sammy principally, for he's establishing the industries, but that won't help the rank-and-file of local folk who, by that time, will be dependent on jobs in 'em.

They're being deliberately and virtually forcibly trained into mechanics and artisans—city dwellers, in the midst of movies, gas, electricity, telephones, beer halls, schools for their children and all the other conveniences of modern urban life, and at tolerably good wages, incidentally.

Will they enjoy returning to cattle punching, crop raising and rubber gathering, if those upper Amazon gum trees ever succeed in being tamed from the wild state into regular plantations?

And the countries' economics, of course, will be something to write home about.

They haven't got any Leon Henderson down there, either. They're inflating now, like sixty.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, May 4, 1922.

S. F. Bell, commander of McLaughlin post, G. A. R., was confined to his home on Marion avenue, by illness.

Roy Isch was elected president of Eagles lodge.

Kiwanians enjoyed outing at Woodland allottment, followed by dinner at Masonic temple.

Ray B. Cairns moved from 162 Western avenue to 23 Dunbilt court.

Birthday party was given for little Evelyn Rusk, 78 East Second street.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Sanford, 412 Park avenue west.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, May 4, 1937.

Miss Doris Mann was elected president of Delta Theta Tau sorority.

Miss Margaret O'Brien died at her home, 173 East Third street.

Murray D. Shaffer submitted his resignation as service-safety director.

A $100,000 summer street improvement program was passed by city council.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sheets, 139 Chilton avenue.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Peter Minuit, Dutch governor of New Amsterdam and colonizer of New Sweden, landed on Manhattan island on May 4, 1626. Sometime between July 4 and September he called the native Indian chiefs into council and from them for merchandise valued at 60 guilders, equal to about $24, purchased the entire island. The price paid constituted about one tenth cent per acre.

They Can Rest Now

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY can rest now. No longer need they feel the agony of strangling lungs, of mangled flesh, ebbing hope.

No longer will they watch with desperate eyes the sky that brought no answer.

For they are dead. They lie still now, in the tangled, bloody grass of Bataan . . . the young men who starved and fought for weeks while other young men quarreled peevishly over hours of work across full dinner tables.

They can rest now, as Custer's men rested when the bloody thing was done . . . as the real makers of America have rested that you and I might sit smug and safe, free from their agony and alarms. Nothing disturbs them.

But I tell you that every American head should be bowed in shame tonight. This horror—this tragedy that can never be redeemed—is not the fault of one man; it is the fault of every adult man and woman in this luxury-loving nation, every man and woman who has listened to the war news as if it were a radio play, but not believed that it could happen.

Out there in Bataan, with death falling upon them from every side, they fought on half rations until the last ounce of their strength was gone. But back in America they delayed and argued and quibbled.

A Quisling is a dangerous and contemptible thing, but a quibbler at a time like this is infinitely more traitorous and contemptible.

Back in Washington they talked about higher wages, shorter hours—forty-hour weeks. As it happens I am union-minded. But I am not union-minded to the extent of thinking that it is a hardship to work a few extra hours for our nation.

A hardship to work 48 hours? What average wife does not work 48 hours, and more, caring for her babies and her home? What farmer does not exceed this quota? I may and I do agree with the aims for an ever-heightening way of life, but there was no heightening way of life for those dead in Bataan. There were no carefree evenings, lolling in the movies and cocktail bars. And every one of you who thought only of his own selfish interests during that time betrayed this country as foully as any Jap.

They are quiet now, those boys who were singing school songs such a little while ago. The long days and years will come and go but, please God, they will be working in a fairer, kindlier land. And when victory comes to America, it will not be to your credit or to mine. We have all rolled in the same trough, we are all bloodied with the same murder.

Don't say to me, "avenge Bataan!" Bataan cannot be avenged. Bataan lies dead in the tangled grass, is dissolving in bloody earth.

But America may yet survive if, out of our shame, and our selfishness we can arise once more to the stature of men and women and fight another Bataan that shall not fall!

Angel—From "Messenger"

There has not yet appeared," so runs an ancient Chinese legend, 'the fox with nine tails, angel of peace."

Curious in this translation of an Oriental superstition, that there should be used the word "angel" in its essential sense of messenger.

"Angel" was the identical term the Greeks requisitioned in the Septuagint to translate the Hebrew mal 'ak, or in full, mal 'ak Yehowah, massenger of Jehovah.

From this original application there were adopted by modern languages, through the Latin, both the name and the doctrine of angels — as divine emissaries, members of an order of spiritual beings, attendants of the Diety.

Murray's Failure To Keep FDR Off Wage Ceiling Stand Revealed

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Up to a few hours before the president made his tough anti-inflation broadcast CIO President Phil Murray tried to pressure him to soft-pedal a ceiling on wages.

Murray approved the other six points of the president's program, but wanted him to lay off the one applying to labor.

With the vigorous support of AFL moguls, Murray had been trying to get him to do this for weeks. But when several earnest efforts to talk the matter out with Murray proved unavailing, Roosevelt turned a deaf ear.

Murray made his last-minute effort by trying to call Roosevelt on the phone. But the answer came that he was busy putting the finishing touches on his speech, could not be interrupted.

In this undercover pressure attempt an intimation was made to the White House that in retaliation, the AFL and CIO might withdraw their representatives on the War Labor Board, which has jurisdiction over the wage question. The CIO did this once before when the old National Defense Labor Board turned down John L. Lewis' demand for a closed shop in the "captive" mines.

This walk-out smashed the NDLB and forced the president to reorganize it into the WLB.

The latest walk-out threat drew a swift and blunt counter-challenge. Word has been sent the laborites that if they quit the WLB, the president will bar them completely from the agency. He will reconstitute it into a body of five or seven members representing only the public at large.

Note—Insiders say the real reason for Murray's agitated efforts to block a wage ceiling is fear that John L. Lewis will use this in his bitter personal vendetta against Murray.

Modest Diplomat.

ADOLPH BERLE, nimble-tongued assistant secretary of state, observed mysteriously to several press friends:

"Have you got your eye on the presidential candidate for 1944?"

"Who's that?" asked the newsmen.

"It will be the next governor of New York," replied Berle. Then, after a pause, he added, "You know, some have suggested me."

* * *

Major Roosevelt.

THERE is an interesting inside story behind Elliott Roosevelt's promotion to be a major in the air corps.

Two years ago, when he was made a captain, Elliott probably took the toughest beating which public opinion has given any young man in this country for years. It was in the middle of the presidential campaign. Buttons were circulated, reading: "I want to be a captain too." Songs, vaudeville quips, wisecracks were on everyone's tongue regarding the second son of the president. When he went down the street in Dayton, O., where he was stationed, people whistled and taunted him, so that life was almost unbearable.

Since then, almost no one has heard of Elliott. But in the interim he has guided planes to Iceland twice under hazardous conditions when not all planes were getting there. He has worked hard, kept out of the limelight, taken no time off, and done the work of an officer above the rank of captain.

So about two months ago his name came up for promotion. The recommendations of his immediate superior officers were excellent. They proposed that he be made a major.

But when this recommendation came to the office of Col. Trubee Davison, Hoover's assistant secretary of war and a staunch Republican campaigner, it was blocked. Whether Trubee Davison personally stopped it is not known. But there is no question that someone in his office did.

Roosevelt appointed Republican Davison to an important personnel job in the air corps, so his office has to pass on promotions. And there Elliott's promotion rested, until finally regular army officers blasted it out.

Broke Naval Conference.

TWELVE years ago one of the authors of this column was called before the senate naval affairs committee to testify regarding efforts of the shipbuilding-navy lobby to break up the Geneva naval conference of 1927—called by Coolidge to limit cruisers, destroyers and submarines.

During the testimony it was brought out that Admiral Joseph M. Reeves (then a captain) had co-operated with the lobby, which sought to prevent limitation of navies.

A lot of time has passed since then, and in retrospect we sometimes wonder whether there was not quite a bit to be said for Admiral Reeves. If the Geneva naval conference of 1927 had succeeded, the United States probably would not have had the impetus for building the cruisers now being used against the Japanese. Nor would the British have had some of the cruisers they are using today.

Anyway, whether right or wrong, Admiral Reeves is a tough, hard-hitting, far-sighted officer who during some forty years has done a good job for the navy, and it would be better if it had more like him.

War Flashes.

THE ARMY soon will pass the 500 mark on generals. There are now over 480 general officers on active duty. . . . Along with a lot of other things, women are going to have to do with fewer stockings from now on. Last year U. S. hosiery makers produced 12 pairs of silk and nylon stockings for every American woman. This year production is estimated at about six pairs per capita. . . . Popular General Malin Craig, former chief of staff, works 10 to 12 hours daily at the war department as head of several little-known, but very important, service boards. Craig was retired when war broke out, but immediately asked for and was put on active duty. . . . The rubber shortage is hitting army raincoats. Under new specifications these raincoats will be made with a greatly reduced rubber content, saving many thousands of pounds of rubber.

NEW YORK—Idea Dept.: You can't use it all up, and have any left. . . . Energy, I mean. . . . Take Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor. . . . They were the old timers who scored the greatest hits in the last two seasons. . . . All the critics marveled at Jolson's magnificent energy, his enthusiasm and pep. . . . Jolson had it. . . . He worked night and day. . . . His show became the hit of Broadway. . . . Yet, when it was at its peak, Jolson had to quit, and go to Florida for a rest. . . . Same with Cantor, a whizbang whirling dervish type of guy who can not sit still. . . . A tremendous worker. . . . His "Banjo Eyes" was a great hit. . . . But the other night Eddie had to quit, and go to a hospital for a rest. . . . Somebody ought to show those guys how to ration their energy.

Success Dept.: For years Paul Mason was a vocalist with Tommy Dorsey's band. . . . His only hobby was playing with watches. . . . The insides of watches fascinated him. . . . If one of the boys in the band broke his watch Paul fixed it. . . . He got pretty good at fixing watches. . . . One day Paul quit. . . . And went down to a town in West Virginia. He bought him a piece of ground, and built a house on it. . . . Then he became a watch maker. . . . Presently they discovered oil in his back yard. . . . Now he has plenty of coin and is living the best life, the only worthwhile life, which means doing what you want to do. . . . And that's what Paul's doing—fixing watches.

Atlantic City Dept.: The war causes a few changes in this seaside city. . . . The boardwalk is now a sort of rhapsody in blue. . . . soft blue and purple lights are used on the lamp posts and in stores and shops along the boardwalk. . . . Hackney's restaurant features a display of former "Miss America" contest winners, among this Joan Blondell, Dallas, Texas, 1926. . . . There is no "pleasure" flying here. . . . If the transmitter of station WFPG weren't visible, planes would fly into it. . . . That's what they say. . . . It's on the tip of Steel Peer and has red lights showing as guides to planes. Residents of Atlantic City think they live in the safest place in the USA. . . . Reason: "This is a fun city—no war plants."

A Farmer's Diary

More Power to Him!

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

CHARLIE grew up on a neighboring farm to ours, and it has been some time since I heard much about him. He was a wiry, grubby appearing boy, I remember, the "runt" of a family of six children. By that I mean he seemed to be the least promising of the lot, although he was good at "taking his own part," could not be imposed upon, and was always busy at something.

Charlie was stubborn, too—very apt to do the contrary thing. As a boy, he would steal green apples if somebody forbade him to, even though he did not really eat them. As a youth, told that drink and cards were not respectable, he learned to play poker and was known to take a drink or two, when it was offered. Taught that early marriage was ill-advised, and that marriage of cousins often resulted in imbecile children, he forthwith ran off and married his cousin Jen before they were both nineteen—and proceeded to have eight children, seven of them boys, and not an abnormal one among the lot.

To feed his family, he had to work, and Charlie fed them. He didn't mind hard work. He tried various kinds—a steel mill, a lathe, a bakery shop, a big manufacturing plant. Then came the Florida boom and he bought a tract of land and went south to start a trucking business. He lost all he had. Farming wasn't the same, down there, and he didn't know the ropes. He came back, broke, and took up the care of a peculiar, invalid aunt who gave him her farm for caring for her, in her last days. She lived six years. She had good care. Charlie and Jen earned the farm.

Then Charlie got night work at "an easy job." He was watchman at a big manufacturing plant. War came, and the plant began working a night shift.

"What is Charlie doing now?" I asked my informant.

"Well, three of his boys are with the AEF and two more are willing to go. One son's a preacher, one's a college professor, two are business men and one's a farmer. Charlie's done his bit and he's old enough to quit."

"And has he?"

"No—not Charlie! He's gone back to hard work. They're using him now handling cement for a defense job. He's old and he chews tobacco something fierce, but he's as tough and wiry and stubborn as ever. He says we've got to win this damn war, if it takes the skin off!"

BUDGET BUREAU TO SPLIT CASH

Herbert Says Distribution of State Funds Lies With County Commissions.

Richland county officials were told last week that the $18,500 the county received for civilian defense work probably would be distributed by the county budget commission, but the order was made official today by a ruling of Atty.-Gen. Thomas J. Herbert. His opinion was given the bureau of inspection.

After the funds are allocated to the subdivisions, they may turn all or part of their share over to the local defense council for use as desired, the attorney-general added.

There are no restrictions on how it is spent, Herbert said, so long as it goes for civilian defense. In fact, he added, "the expenditure of the moneys received by the subdivisions of the county rests solely in the sound discretion of the officials of such subdivision."

A Dozen Plowings For $618

Neighbors of Harry A. White, farmer of near Pueblo, Colo., thought he had become eccentric indeed when he ploughed a field over and over again. The 12th ploughing brought results. It uncovered a wallet containing $618 which White had lost the first time he ploughed the field — hence the repeated ploughings. White poses here with the empty wallet — the money is now safely in a bank.

CHURCH GROUP HAS ELECTION

Crestline Lutheran Class Elects Mrs. L. L. Hill President.

CRESTLINE—Mrs. L. L. Hill was elected president of the Forward In Faith class of Trinity Lutheran church at a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Beck.

The latter was elected vice president and Mrs. Earl Feik secretary-treasurer.

The program was taken from the Lutheran Catechism. The question of the church nursery was again discussed and it was decided to let the mothers with children gather in the primary room where a loud speaker has been installed.

During the business session with Mrs. Robert Retter presiding, Mrs. Bud Swain was received as a new member.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Ed Bletz.

Mrs. Raymond G. Weaver who is moving soon to Norfolk, Va., was given a shower of handkerchiefs by the group as a parting gift.

The June 5 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bletz.

When Baby Won't Play In Her Pen

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

THE BABY pen serves to keep the baby who is beginning to climb, creep and even to walk a little, from under the mother's feet, and renders him safer from hazards and drafts But he may not care to stay in his pen.

Writing of her daughter 11 months of age, a mother states:

"She used to stay in her play yard and play with her toys or just sit quietly and watch me at my work. Lately, however, she screams when I put her in the play yard. I have never used the yard to punish her and I am sure there is no fear responsible for this action.

Throws Toys Out of Pen

"Before I put her in the play yard I place there an aluminum kettle full of small toys she has always liked. But the only interest she shows in them is to take them out of the kettle, one by one, and throw them on the floor, then she starts to whine and cry. Today I thought I'd try ignoring her when she did this but at the end of two hours I took her up fearing she would make herself sick. I have never made a practice of holding her or carrying her around during the day but lately that is the only way I can quiet her

"Please don't think I am exaggerating the situation, because I certainly am not Few people seem able or willing to give young mothers the advice they need so desperately today I find that most doctors and nurses try to laugh off a young mother's questions and think that telling her not to worry automatically solves her problems.

"I get most of my information from books but this one problem the books don't cover adequately. I have clipped and saved many of your articles to use for future reference and I hope you will advise me on my present problem. A stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed."

Doctor's Answer

You have almost described my first grandchild at your child's age, and it was a very real problem to the mother for a few months.

Your child cries to get you to amuse her as you do because of the loss she feels of this satisfying experience when you don't. She finds great pleasure in being carried around when she can see so many new things and have the grand feeling of being moved about in your cuddling arms.

Instead of letting her cry in the pen alone for long periods, let it be for periods of five or ten minutes at first, then gradually lengthened ones. Post a schedule. Follow it. Be with her to amuse her at first about as long as she is left alone. Continue with about this same length of time with her while you gradually lengthen the time away from her At first, have the play yard in sight of you at work. As you must tidy up another room, take her along with you Let her have a few things with her to push about.

Only occasionally should you carry her about and at irregular intervals. Expect her to complain and cry some. Try to harden yourself to it. She must learn she can't manage you. Good luck

Solving Parent Problems

Q What do you think of the parent who, in writing an excuse for a son or daughter known to have played hookey, put down "Illness"?

A. I think that parent has little regard for moral integrity for himself or the child, or for law and order in the school.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Homemakers Honor Mothers At Tea Sunday

Mothers of the Future Homemakers 4-H club members were honored with a tea given from 2 to 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the group leader, Mrs. Harold F. Tingley, Piper road. Approximately 30 were present.

Program presented by the girls consisted of musical selections and readings. Guest speaker was Mrs. J. R. Turner who was assisted by her daughter, Louise, in presenting a reading and vocal number. The home was attractively decorated with dogwood blossoms and other spring flowers.

Color scheme of yellow, blue, green and pink was used on the tea table and for aprons worn by the girls who served. Margaret Tingley and Helen Hursh presided at the table. They were assisted by Phyllis Adams and Josephine Sauder.

Corsages were presented to the mothers as favors.

Wartime Date Frocks

Left to right, kelly green frock with white ruffles; blue torso dress; velvet trimmed rayon taffeta

By SUSAN BARDEN

Wartime is the time we keep this season, and almost everyone who is stepping out for a date will make her appearance in the broad daylight.

Whether your personal appointment is to see your best beau on furlough or to meet friend husband home early from his defense job, you'll want to look right, with a dress that will be appropriate for both afternoon and evening.

Something basic in style and tricked out with some staccato color accent or gay trimming can be counted on to combine the practicality and enchanting femininity that's the wartime fashion ideal.

Even if your budget has been somewhat reduced by a patriotic desire to put all your extra money in war bonds and stamps, you'll naturally want to look lovely of an evening for the man-in-your-life, so why not try whipping up some date dresses for yourself.

Nowadays any beginner can enjoy the thrifty hobby of sewing in defense of your budget, because almost every locality has a sewing center where you can learn the latest sewing short-cuts and dressmaker tricks in an afternoon or two.

The three dresses shown above are ideal for daylight to dark activities.

The first is a Kelly green rayon crepe with a fine fitted bodice and a waist-hugging girdle. Its simple lines are made more dramatic by a frothy ruffled trimming on the deep-descending square neckline and bracelet-length sleeves.

The second dress is a comfortable, smart choice for daytime and date wear that you can make easily. It is a two-piece dress with the importantly new torso blouse and pleated skirt of blue rayon crepe. The distinguishing touch of straight shoulder yoke below the collarless neckline is highlighted by a row of stitching.

The third model is a delectable velvet trimmed rayon taffeta frock that is definitely a booster to glamor. The heart-shaped neckline, with velvet trimmed and bow tied shoulder yoke, establishes this basque bodice dress in the class of alluring femininity.

HENRY C. BERG, JR., and cousin, George R. Lang of Maywood, Ill., spent the week-end with Mr. Berg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Berg, South Foster street. Both young men are employed as tool and die-makers at the Vapor Car-Heating company in Chicago, Ill.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The days and weeks following Drake's death seemed to Parris to descend to a curious level of monotony. The whole world was slippery, incorporeal, and kaleidoscopic.

Just before Christmas he saw Randy at Carey Whitehead's office. He had seen her frequently, and he was surprised each time to see how quickly she had regained her calm. She spoke of business matters with less enthusiasm

"It used to be fun, you know, Parris. Drake"—she managed the name with little difficulty—"was always so excited about anything new that we undertook. Now, I sort of wonder why I bother about it. I have enough money—I don't need too much, you know."

"Well, Randy, I've been wanting to talk to you about the business. I'd like to get out."

"Perhaps you're right."

"I just want to think about my work. Now, I don't want to leave you in the lurch in any way."

"It wouldn't be, Parris. I'd like to quit, too. I believe Dan Gilbert and Elliott would buy us out."

"Do you think so? But what would you do? I think you ought to have something."

"I'm tired, Parris."

"Yes I can understand that. All of these years—"

"Parris, it seems like a dream now. I remember the afternoon you left for Europe, and I ran into you and Drake at the depot. I was awfully happy, I realize now that I was, until real troubles came It's strange, but I don't seem to be able to recall right now all those years as well as I can the beginning."

"It's rather natural, Randy You'll have to slowly forget the terrible things—"

"I don't want to forget anything, Parris. Every hour of my life is precious. It's all right, Parris. I used to think a great deal about the future. I always dreaded Drake's growing old. It was frightful that he had to die as he did, but . . . poor Drake!" Randy's eyes dimmed. "I'll be able to make sense out of it all sometime, I hope. We mustn't lose sight of each other, Parris. You have been so good—so good."

"You two were my only friends, you know!"

"Parris, I'm just 32 years old—will be 32 on my next birthday, and I feel as though I had lived half a dozen lives."

"I can understand that, too."

"Whatever was done, Parris, we did together, you and I—the only two people who really loved Drake." She looked up quickly. "Do you hear anything about Louise Gordon?"

"Not a word. I did hear that her condition was worse and that there seemed little hope of her recovery."

"Parris, all of that seems a mighty strange, dark business to me. There are worse things about it than we know."

"I'm afraid so."

Parris thought of what Randy had said about her age. His own age, as well. He didn't, of course, feel old, as Randy did, but he had a disagreeable letdown feeling, as if many things, many courses were suddenly finished. He, too, had lived through experiences that had been too violent.

Mrs. Skeffington's denunciations of Kings Row came back to his mind. And yet, a clear, cool thread of reason that spun like a thread of crystal through his weaving thought and fancy told him the feeling was wrong. Kings Row was only a small unit in a diverse and fluctuating world. He he — Parris Mitchell — was not Parris Mitchell of Kings Row, but Parris Mitchell of the world. So stationed, there was nothing in Kings Row that could ever reach through to touch him. He had only to think of the vast, interweaving effort of men in all places, and in all times, who strove to connect and link up the scattered labors of the world into a beneficial whole, to have sense of his own destiny.

Late in the spring Parris crossed the Aberdeen campus one afternoon just as the public school across the way was being dismissed for the day. He heard the mixed chatter of the released prisoners, as clash upon clash of soprano dissonances chopped the air.

Parris watched the crowd of children thin and go away. Just a few years ago he had been one of them, he and Drake, Cassie, Randy, Vera, Peyton, and all the others.

He looked across the schoolyard, down across the hill, beyond the wide sweep of the creek with its plumy willows. He could see the soft-leafed grove of maples where his old home stood, where Elise lived.

Parris followed the road, past the Macintoshes, across the bridge, along the sandy avenue just threaded with the scant shadows of the birches. Now, at last, he lifted his eyes toward the house. Elise was standing on the terrace. She raised her arm straight above her head and waved, a gay, happy, childish gesture. Then she ran down the terrace steps on her way to meet him.

Soldier Must Consent to Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Having had unsatisfactory information from those allegedly in authority about my problem, as a last resort I am applying to you. Two years before the war started, I was engaged to my old schoolmate. After he was inducted into the service one thing after another happened and we could not be married.

His parents have not seen him for over a year. Is there any way he could be sent home so we could be married? If that is not possible, could I go to the distant post where he is now stationed and marry him? I have the necessary money to defray all expenses. There is no fear that I shall be stranded.

I'll be glad to do army work near his post. I have taken an advanced First Aid course in the Red Cross. I can drive a car, and I can do secretarial work. Please let me know what steps to take.

Soldier's Girl.

If your sweetheart is willing to have you go to his post and marry you there, it will be permitted by his Commanding Officer. Though, let me warn you they are not overly enthusiastic about enlisted men marrying. If the Red Cross or other Defense work agrees to accept your services, that's up to them. Let me advise you not to start off to see your soldier sweetheart without his consent to the marriage ceremony, and knowing exactly where he is stationed before you leave home.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My son, 24, enlisted in the service almost immediately after our entering the war and is stationed at a post three hours by train from his home. He announced his engagement the last time I saw him. The woman, at least eight years older than he is, is a widow with a child of seven.

He has given her almost every cent of his pay and I hear he has made over his insurance to her. If he does not marry this woman and if there seems to be some idea that she has not been properly divorced, can she be made a beneficiary of his insurance?

A Mother

If there is no legal impediment to your son's marriage to this woman and he actually marries her, she can be made the beneficiary of his insurance. Otherwise she cannot collect.

So many young men in the last war made over their insurance to women they met casually that this time Uncle Sam has put his foot down on the practice. No marriage license, no soldier's insurance.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is a second physical examination necessary if I file a claim for compensation as a veteran?

Partly Disabled

There are many ramifications connected with your inquiry. As you live at no great distance from Washington, let me suggest that you take your papers to the Adjutant General's Office, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. If official records show there is reasonable probability of a valid claim—ten per cent disability—it is probable you will not have to undergo a second examination. Disability cases vary to such an extent that it's better to have the last word authoritative.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, May 5.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

Unusual promise for broadening the scope of living, with definite advance on cherished goals, may be read from the predominant planetary configurations. In the pursuit of ambitious objectives there should be substantial support and encouragement from elders, superiors and those in influential positions.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of very decisive advancement upon cherished ideals, high ambitions and practical culminations to long-hoped-for objectives, affecting the domestic, social and private life. In this the assistance and wise counsel of elders, superiors and those in high places may be counted upon, although there may be some sudden postponements, obstacles or peculiar frustrations.

A child born on this day should be consumed with very lofty ambitions to reach a high and influential position in life. It will have the endurance, and good sense to attain these ends.

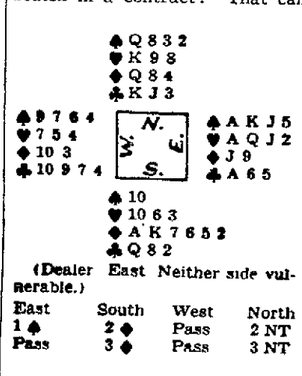
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ACCEPTING A BEATING

Can you imagine a tournament being won because the winning declarer deliberately and intentionally allowed himself to be beaten in a contract? That can really be the finest match point bridge, if he reckons the chances are overwhelmingly in favor of his being beaten two tricks in case he tries a highly improbable play to make his contract. In rubber bridge, the same declarer should attempt almost any kind of play—no matter how unlikely—to make the contract, rather than accept a defeat.



(Dealer East Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 ♦	Pass	3 NT

East reframed from doubling because he was pleased with the contract, and then led the spade K. When West played the encouraging 7, East followed with the A, and then the J.

North's natural play here in rubber bridge is to take the trick with the Q, as there are still two aces out against him, and then try to embarrass his opponents by running diamonds.

When that style of play was tried in the duplicate where this hand was dealt, East won the tenth trick with the club A and led the spade 5 to West's 9, enabling the latter to return a heart up to the A-Q, thereby setting the contract two tricks.

At one table, however, the declarer was Edward Lasker, of the Whist club in New York, who brings to the bridge table the same acumen which makes him one of the greatest radio experts of the advertising world When he saw West's encouraging high-low cards on the first two spade tricks, he read them as indicating a holding of four headed by the 9. He therefore realized that if he took the third lead, the spade J, with his Q, East would later be able to put West into the lead to go through his heart K. So he let the J win. East now had no way to set the contract more than one trick, as he could never give West the lead. He therefore cashed the heart A and club A, setting the contract one trick, after which Mr. Lasker got all of the rest.

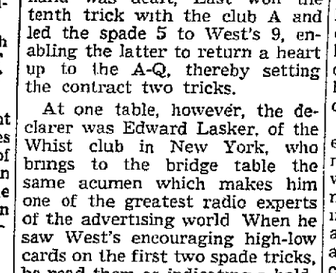
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. West. Both sides vulnerable.)

What is the most precise bidding of this deal?

Basic Beef Stew.

2 pounds boiling beef, cut in 1-inch cubes
4 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon celery salt
⅛ teaspoon sage
3 cups stock or water
6 medium carrots, cut in 1-inch strips
½ pound green beans
2 cups canned tomatoes
6 to 8 small onions, peeled
2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes

Wipe meat with cloth; dredge with flour and seasonings. Brown in drippings in heavy kettle. Add stock or water; heat to boiling point, lower heat, cover tightly and simmer slowly for 45 minutes to one hour. Prepare vegetables, except potatoes. Add to meat in kettle and continue cooking for 25 minutes. Serve in soup or salad bowls. Decorate around edge with mashed potatoes. Makes 6 servings.

Variations.

1. Lamb, veal or pork cut in cubes may be used in place of beef, or a combination of veal and pork.

2. In place of ⅛ teaspoon sage, use ⅛ teaspoon curry powder, marjoram, or thyme.

3. Add chopped chives, mint, sweet basil, chopped parsley, or tarragon to other seasonings, omitting sage.

Teaching a Child to Be Considerate

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph. D.

SOME WEEKS ago, for the first time in my life, I addressed a Parent Teacher Association on a Sunday evening. I spoke on "Our Children in These Times," and the final emphasis was the need of more religion in the family. I had also dwelt on the importance of bringing up our children to respect the rights and feelings of others, especially in these times. I said that we parents best succeed in this direction as we discipline ourselves to respect and protect the child's rights and feelings.

During the long period of answering questions from the audience, a mother who was holding a sleeping child of four on her lap said: "Please tell me in more detail just how to bring up this child to respect the rights and feelings of others." The youngster slept on as I replied.

Now and later on, you want your neighbors to speak well of your child saying that they like to have her come into their house or on their premises, that she never bothers anybody on the street nor mars nor destroys anything in the neighborhood, nor uses nor takes anything which does not belong to her. You want the clerks in the neighborhood stores also to say similar complimentary things.

Behavior at School.

When she goes to Sunday school or church you want her to exercise self-control, good manners and reverence. When she goes to school you will want the teachers to say of her that she is a good citizen there, observing the rules of the school, minding her own business, getting along well with other children, being trustworthy and dependable.

At home you want her now and always to be careful of her own and other people's things, not to stand or jump on the furniture or play games of chase or engage in roughhouse indoors You want her to learn to wait on herself in every way she is able and to be self-reliant. You want her to have good health habits and to learn gradually to share in the home duties and responsibilities.

Family Atmosphere.

To these ends you and your husband want to provide this child with a family atmosphere of understanding, security and love, always treating her as a precious person, answering all her questions kindly, listening attentively to what she has to say (and helping her to learn to listen to others also), never making fun of her or laughing at her blunders; dwelling lightly on her failures, helping her enjoy achievement, celebrating her successes.

Some years ago I wrote a prayer for myself as a parent. You may have a copy of this prayer, without cost to you, by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Also a group of prayers for the young child.

Pet Peeves Will Get You Down

By MME QUI VIVE

The "perfect nervous lady" has a hard life. There are so many things that irk her. She can't stand this, she can't stand that. In course of time she gets a nervous face that, in due course, shows up wrinkles. She torments herself beyond reason. Tormenting herself doesn't change matters.

One member of the family twiddles his fingers. It drives her nuts, and she says so. Of course, a finger twiddler has his rights. All she has to do is to stop watching the twiddling. Another member of the family may have eccentric table manners. She can fuss about them for forty years, and sometimes she does. And they go on just the same. The nervous lady forgets that she, probably, is not always Emily Postish. We're all of us irritating at times. We may not know it, but we are. Because other people have other standards and we do not come up to them. Nobody can please everybody. There may be perfectionists in this world but we're talking now about the run-of-the-mill individual.

Peculiar manners are no help to charm; every sensible person should endeavor to avoid them. They slip up on one. To notice them and to be made miserable by them in sheer folly. It is in a way, degrading; one should have more self-control.

The woman who complains of nervousness is far from happy. She is always in a fuss about something. If nervousness interferes with appetite, if it keeps her awake at night, she should have a thorough physical examination. The cause may be due to some hidden infection, some digestive disturbance. There's a close bond between body and mind; what affects one may affect the other, since the two are sympathetic.

If she is in good health, desires sincerely and prayerfully to get along pleasantly with her fellow creatures, she must formulate a policy of protection, not seek annoyances, and, when they present themselves before her, have sufficient strength of character to bear with them patiently.

She must protect herself against fatigue, which starts nerves jangling. She must sidestep doleful bores who rob her of her good spirits. Most of all, she must protect herself against nervous fancies that beset all of us at one time or another—needless anxieties, crossing bridges before we come to them.

Fresh air, relaxation, health-giving recreations will steady an unsound nervous system.

Nervous women usually have pinched faces and tight lips, as if they were holding themselves under restraint. Facial muscles are tense and the expression of the face will become hard. If you're a "perfect nervous lady" you'd better watch a leetle out.

To help keep colors bright and to prevent scratches, go over the painted furniture in the breakfast nook or kitchen with a thin coat of wax. This protects the surface, making cleaning easy.

Use are gum to remove pencil scratches from wallpaper. And any reliable liquid dry cleaning preparation will usually remove marks made by crayons.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"I am so glad." I told Sadie, the long distance telephone operator who, at the mandate of the captain of the state troopers, had been looking up the records of all long distance calls received during the last month by Professor Diswell. "Just wait a second please," I said, "until I get pencil and paper."

"Professor Diswell," began Sadie crisply, "since he has lived up here, has had less than a dozen long distance calls each year. His bank and his lawyers telephone him about every three months, and he occasionally calls them; also shops in New York, but not often. All those calls have been made in the daytime.

Night Call From New York.

"A month ago, however," she went on, "we had a call for Professor Diswell from New York at two o'clock in the morning. It was a person to person call, and because of that fact the operator remembered it very well. In fact"—there was a note of amusement in Sadie's voice—"I am afraid her zeal overstepped her observance of rules a bit, for she seems to have overheard their talk."

"I am very glad she did." I said.

"I thought you would be," Sadie commented, and I made a mental guess that the chief operator had relaxed discipline and encouraged the night operator to repeat what she had overheard.

"Was it a man or a women who called him?" I asked.

"A man," Sadie replied promptly. "At first the operator thought his name was Johnson—the connection was not very good—and Professor Diswell refused to take the reverse call, for which he would have to pay, saying he knew no one of that name. Then the New York man became very excited, said the operator had made a mistake in the name and demanded, almost in tears, she said, that she tell Professor Diswell the name was Shawn—Mr. Ian Rue Shawn."

My hand went to my throat.

"What?" I almost shrieked. "Please say that again."

"I would better spell it," she said competently, and did so: "I-a-n R-u-e S-h-a-w-n."

I could not speak for so long that Sadie, evidently thinking the connection had been broken, asked with concern, "Are you there, Mrs. Graham?"

"Yes, yes," I told her feverishly, "and thank you very much. This is tremendously important information to me, and I shall be glad of any additional crumb of information you can give me. Did your operator note Professor Diswell's reaction to the name she gave him?"

Diswell Greatly Excited.

"Indeed she did," Sadie answered. "I guess she'll remember it always," for the old man, when he understood the name, became violently excited. He asked what the devil she had meant by giving him the name of Johnson; said he would pay for any call, and told her to put the man on at once.

"You can imagine that by this time the girl was pretty excited herself, and his mention of a suit against the company made her subsequent listening to the conversation almost excusable."

"Wholly excusable," I amended with emphasis. "Please tell me what was said."

"Well," Sadie hesitated, as if refreshing her memory, "she put the New York man on the phone and the first thing he said was: "Professor Diswell! Don't you remember me? This is Shawn: "Shawn Rue" you used to call me."

Avoiding Waste Best Way to Save

By BETSY NEWMAN

The best way to economize is to use up every bit of food you have on hand. Don't throw any in the garbage can if you can possibly help it. If the celery is very full of leaf, wash leaves well, add the diced tough stalks, add an onion cut in pieces, and stew them with a little cold water until tender, then put through a sieve. A good cream soup can then be made for lunch or supper by adding equal parts of milk, seasoned with butter, salt and pepper and thickened slightly with flour.

Today's Menu.

Bean Pot Roast
Mixed Green Salad
War Pudding
Coffee, Tea or Substitute

Bean Pot Roast

1½ lbs. shoulder of lamb, or
1½ lbs, round or chuck steak
1 cup potatoes, diced
¼ cup sliced onion
1 cup carrots, diced

Cover meat with boiling water, put cover on bean pot and let meat cook in moderate over for 2 hours; then add vegetables and 1½ teaspoon salt. Cook until vegetables are tender, about 1 hour longer. When ready to serve, pour sauce over meat made from 1 cup of pot liquor thickened with 1 tablespoon flour. Serves 4 to 6.

War Pudding.

1 pt. (2 cups) bread crumbs
½ cup milk ½ cup molasses
½ cup raisins
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg ½ cup sugar

Pour milk over bread crumbs, and when it is absorbed add molasses, raisins, soda, cinnamon and cloves. Mix well and steam in covered pan for 3 hours. Serve with sauce made of the egg beaten with sugar, adding ¼ teaspoon any preferred flavoring. Serves 5.

Camp Joseph C. Robinson, down by Little Rock, Ark., ought to have a pretty fair softball team this season.

Mansfielder Bob Hetler, writing to Uncle Bill Hetler, says that among his camp mates are Jimmy Fullager and Ed Henrich.

Now all Mansfield softball fans know that Jimmy Fullager is a very good hurler of the "punkin ball" and that Ed Henrich, big, but big, brother of New York Yankee Tom Henrich, can slough that apple for a country mile.

Ed and Jim are just two of Mansfield's softballers now performing for Uncle Sam, and the fact that they have quite a bit of company in the armed forces is responsible for the lack of interest in the sport here at home.

One last desperate effort to revive softball here for the summer will be made tomorrow night when the Mansfield Softball commission meets at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock.

It is understood in this corner that six Industrial leagues are definitely entered for league play this summer, but that a proposed Church league and City league are in sore need of teams and backers.

Personally, I would like to see a flock of teams come rushing in with entries in the Church and City leagues, just to keep up some semblance of local sports interest this summer. But if the teams aren't there, they just aren't there, and that's all. All managers and sponsors of softball teams are urged to attend tomorrow night's meeting.

* * *

Mrs. Richard Morse, of Toledo, was in town yesterday, visiting relatives and attending a doings at the First Lutheran church last night.

Now this may sound like a society item to you, but to me it's sport. For Mrs. Morse reports that her husband, Dick, who played a lot of third base last summer for the Mansfield Braves, will be in the lineup of the Tiffin club of the semi-pro Ohio State league this summer.

* * *

Dick had no less than three letters in four days from the management of the Tiffin club, offering him a baseball playing job, and the proposition was too good for him to turn down, so Mrs. M. reports.

One of these nights we'll be going over to Galion to watch the Tiffin ball club, and Dick Morse perform

And I'm beginning to think that a hardball team in this town wouldn't do bad this summer. Now that people have put their cars in the garage, and begun walking to their amusement spots.

* * *

Oh, yes, the bowling banquet league continues to function.

Tonight it's the "C" league at the Sons of Herman at 6:30, and tomorrow night it's the Transportation league at the same place, and at the same spot on the clock.

Be seein' ya.

Ties Record In ABC Tourney

Chicagoan Rolls Top Singles For Honors.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — When Jimmy Kalamaris of Chicago rolled 712 yesterday, he helped to tie an all-time record in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

* * *

Kalamaris' series brought to 25 the number of 700 or better scores rolled in the tournament that has 10 more days to go. That equaled the record set last year at St. Paul, Minn.

* * *

Kalamaris went into 15th place in the singles division with his games of 243, 279 and 190. Frank Burdett and James Murphy of St. Petersburg, Fla., had the high doubles score for the day, 1,215.

There have been no changes among the tournament leaders in a week.

Fielding Loses for Indians

Tribe Tosses Game Away, Breaks Win String.

BOSTON—(AP)—It wasn't weak hitting, nor pitching, that snapped the Indians' winning streak at 13 games and gave the Boston Red Sox an 8 to 4 victory. It was the fielding.

The tribe registered 13 hits yesterday in the first of the three games here, three more than the Red Sox. Al Smith, who was charged with the loss, had allowed only a few infield scratches until his mates' errors brought him to grief.

But Cleveland had the jitters, and that cost them the ball game. Boston scored two runs in the first inning without a hit after two were out, on a walk and two successive errors by Jeff Heath. Twice he muffed fly balls.

Then in the fifth, after the Indians had picked up one run, the trouble began. With one out, Johnny Pesky singled for Boston's fifth hit of the game, and Ted Williams got another. Smith hit Jimmy Foxx, filling the bases. Jim Tabor tapped an easy grounder to Ken Keltner for what should have been a double play to end the inning. But Ray Mack, at second, dropped the ball and Boston got two runs. Keltner failed to get Pete Fox's grounder, another run came in, and the pitching duties were turned over to Steve Gromek. Bobby Doerr's triple registered two more, and Bobby scored on an infield out.

By that time it was too late to catch up. The Tribe got two runs in the seventh on Fabian Gaffke's pinch single, a walk by Roy Weatherly and hits by Oris Hockett and Keltner. Their last tally came in the eighth when Oscar Grimes' pinch hit plated Mack.

Al Milnar was Cleveland's pitching choice today, against the Sox' Dick Newsome.

Mad-A League Opens Season

Kids Too Young For Draft Load Circuit.

(By Associated Press)

The diminished Middle Atlantic league, loaded with boys too young for the draft, is off on its 18th campaign.

Six clubs, in place of the customary eight, staged the inaugural yesterday. The absentees were Akron, 1941 champion, and seventh-place Youngstown.

Erie, last year's runner-up and a favorite for the flag this season, got off to a bad start, losing 5 to 2 to Charleston. Don Bayliss kept eight hits well scattered in handcuffing the Pennsylvanians.

William (Tiny) Osborne pitched seven-hit ball and knocked in two runs to lead Springfield to a 6-3 victory over Canton. The Indians collected all their runs in a wild sixth, and Canton couldn't overcome the margin.

Zanesville's Cubs, taken over by a syndicate of local business men only Saturday, whipped Dayton 5 to 3. The sale was announced by Charles Wynn, hotel operator, who previously had acquired the club from Akron interests. He will continue as club president. Jack Warner is playing manager and vice president.

BANK ON STAR

EVANSTON, Ill. —(INS)—Bobby Jake, sophomore star, may decide that fate of Northwestern's tennis team this season. He suffered a back injury in basketball play, but may be able to doff the cast he is encased in before the nine-match schedule is completed. Coach Paul Bennett will build his squad around Capt. Seymour Greenberg. Big Ten singles champion for the past two years.

Big Town Has Record Grip

Gloria Callen Leads New York to Victory.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—New York city held a tight grip on National AAU women's swimming honors today—thanks to four attractive young women who won five of six championships and tossed in three new world records for good measure.

* * *

The quartet turned back the best that the rest of the nation could offer in a two-day meet at London Terrace pool and when thes pray had settled only one title had eluded them.

Glorious Gloria Callen, glamor girl of the pools who momentarily expects to renounce her amateur status to model and write, was the spearhead of the New York attack. The beautiful, 17-year-old Nyack high school senior contributed two national marks, boosting her record total to 34. Backing her was Helen Rains, 18-year-old New York university sophomore, who scored the only double and added one American mark.

A New York swimming association teammate, Marilyn Sahner, also 17, won an individual title and joined them in successful defense of the 300-yard medley relay championship. Anne Ross, a slim 18-year-old from Brooklyn's Dragon club, gave New York its other title, defending the one-meter dive championship.

The only crown escaping New Yorkers was the 220-yard freestyle, which went to pretty, 19-year-old Betty Bemis, Butler university sophomore from Indianapolis, with a 2:32.6 performance. Miss Sahner was second and Patsy McWhorter, Newark, N. J., third.

Miss Callen started her record smashing in a special race, without competition, setting a new 400-yard back stroke mark of 5:10.7. Her time bettered by almost 19 seconds the old 5:29.6 mark, established by Erna Kompa at Coral Gables, Fla., in 1935.

The brown-haired girl then smashed Eleanor Holm's 11-year-old 50-yard mark twice in pacing her team to a successful 300-yard medley defense. She cut one-tenth of a second from the record with a 31.7 mark in the trials and then reduced this to 31.6 in the finals. Miss Rains and Miss Sahner carried on unpressed, winning by almost a pool length in 3:28.7. The club's "B" team was second with Clark recreation, Cleveland, third.

Miss Rains set a new record of 3:59.1 in the 300-yard individual medley. Defending champion, she broke the 4:03.2 standard registered by Katherine Rawls in 1938. Then she went on to carry off the 220-yard breast stroke, left undefended by Patty Aspinall of Indianapolis, with a 3:12 performance.

Hits Better In Big Show

Hegan Blames It All on Environment.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — "Let's just call it environment, and let it go at that," says young Jim Hegan, Indian rookie, when you ask him the puzzling question of why he hits better against major league pitching than against minor league offerings.

Although he is only 21, and has three years of minor league baseball behind him, Hegan is regarded as one of the finest young catchers ever to make the trip south with the team.

The highest batting average the young giant can point to after three years of professional competition, is the .288 mark he compiled at Oklahoma City, in the Texas league. That was in 1940 when Hegan was under the tutorship of Rogers Hornsby.

In 1941 Jim batted .240 in 70 games at Oklahoma City and then finished the season at Wilkes-Barre, where he dropped even lower—.232.

Late in 1941, however, he joined the Indians, and played in 16 games. He amassed an average of .319, showing plenty of power.

Here's The Way Shut Out Rolled Down The Stretch

Shut-Out, son of the mighty Equipoise, is shown on the outside as he thundered to a two length victory in the 68th annuel Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs before 65,000 racing fans. The horse, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney, was ridden by Wayne Wright, and time for the race was 2 minutes, 4 2-5 seconds.

NEW YORK — Walter Hagen starts his "comeback" today when he hooks up with Actor Bob Hope, Jimmy Demaret and Mayor Jeffries of Detroit in a war relief match at Detroit . . . You can look for Sir Walter to finish second in that field . . . Report from Louisville says Ben Jones' reason for scratching Sun Again from the derby was not because he didn't figure the colt was ready but because he didn't like the position he drew. Sun Again likely will be a Preakness starter although Ben claimed he wasn't sure when he shipped him to Pimlico . . . Jack Sharkey is listed to referee the Red Cochrane-Garvey Young navy relief fight at Boston Friday. Wonder how the old gob will feel if he has to give Marine Young the decision over Sailor Cochrane?

FISHERMAN'S WISDOM

Four Akron anglers, who have been traveling to Canada every summer for a good many reasons, ran into a real problem this spring . . . for rather obvious reasons, none of them wanted to follow the usual custom of hauling the whole party in his car . . . Finally one came forward with an idea. They all use the same size tires, so each contributed his spare to be put on one car for the trip.

Redlegs Plan Player Deals

Poor Start in Loop Race Brings Action.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Rumors of an imminent player deal to bolster the seventh-place Cincinnati Reds began circulating today.

The gossip was that General Manager Warren C. Giles has been looking around for some means of lifting the Redlegs out of the lower division.

Ray Starr, who is credited with one victory and no losses this season, will pitch for the Reds against the New York Giants in today's contest. Bill McGee will serve them up for the Giants.

* * *

The Giants handed Pitcher Bucky Walters his fourth straight defeat in the series opener here yesterday. The score was 5-4.

* * *

The Giants scored all of their runs in the first two frames. They pushed over a run in the first inning and got the other four off Walters and Junior Thompson in the second.

Bill Werber, Giant third baseman and a Cincinnati alumnus, had little respect for his former teammates. He got a triple and a double.

Cincinnati was blanked by Pitcher Bob Carpenter until the eighth when Rookie Hank Sauer lined out a home run. The Reds scored three more times in the ninth, two of the runs being unearned because of an error by Werber.

Eddie Joost made two of Cincinnati's four errors.

Doubleheaders Postponed

Three Bargain Bills In AA Called Off.

(By Associated Press)

Three American Association doubleheaders were postponed yesterday, giving the clubs a chance to lean back—but not with ease—and watch the Milwaukee Express keep widening the gap.

Everyone knew the Brewers possessed power before the season began and that's why most railbirds chose them to wind up in second place. But unless some of the clubs get back on the beam, Manager Charley Grimm's outfit might get out of reach.

* * *

The Brewers shot through to six straight wins yesterday by taking a twin bill from Columbus, 4-2 and 4-3. They are undefeated in 12 games at home and have won 14 of 18 starts.

The only crew near their heels is Kansas City, whose doubleheader with Toledo was postponed as were the scheduled bargain bills between Indianapolis and St. Paul and Louisville and Minneapolis.

FINISHES THIRD

NEW YORK —(AP)— Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O., breaking 92 of 100 targets from the 25-yard line, finished third in competition for the distance handicap title at the annual amateur trapshooting championships yesterday. J. R. Johnson, jr., of Hartford City, Ind., won the title with 94 of 100 targets.

Thrill Show Thrills Crowd

Nearly 10,000 See Midget Auto Races.

Nearly 10,000 fans turned out yesterday to see the war-time midget automobile races and thrill show at the Fairground, which is just about the same crowd that attended the big car races last Decoration day and the midget races during last summer's Richland county fair.

And the thrill show, particularly the closing feature, the big bus leap, was worth the price of admission. The entire crowd gasped and held its breath as Lucky Lott hurdled the bus, and crashed in a row of wrecked used cars, while his own car burst in flames before he landed.

The midget cars averaged nearly 60 miles per hour on the dust-bound track, and the championship 15-lap race saw Al Menominee of Toledo winning in seven minutes, 51 seconds.

* * *

With the exception of the championship race, all races were over the six lap, or three mile route. The results:

First race—al Menominee first, Bud Hamilton, Mansfield, second.

Second race—Ralph Cornell, Akron, first, and George Selzer, Akron, second.

Third race—Swede Carpenter, Indianapolis, first, Ray Stauffer, Detroit, second.

Fourth race—Buzz Luce, Toledo, first, Carl Scarborough, Pontiac, Mich., second.

Consolation—Bob Heintz, Brunswick, O., first, Rocky Eagle, Los Angeles, second.

Championship — Al Menominee first, Bud Hamilton, second, Ralph Cornell third, and Swede Carpenter, fourth.

The crowd, and particularly young boys, kept swarming on the track for the thrill event, but it was capably handled by John Swisher's Fairground police force.

Jockeys Get Boost In Pay at Detroit

DETROIT —(INS)— With a new all-time mark already recorded for stall applications at Detroit, jockeys at the Michigan State fair track will be the highest paid in America for the 73-days season, opening May 23.

According to plans under consideration by the Detroit racing association and Michigan state racing commission, in races worth more than $1,500 winning jockeys would get $35 for first, $20 for second, and $15 for third. Highest fees for riders at any other American track are $25 for a winning mount.

With purses up 25 per cent this year, both trainers and grooms of winning horses are to receive bonuses from the association, according to Secretary Charles F. Henry.

Dodgers Rule Roost, But Cardinals Make It Tough

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn's champion Dodgers still rule the roost in the National league, but the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates have them hanging on the ropes in what is rapidly shaping up as the hottest three-way argument since Junior learned to drive the family automobile.

Still reeling from the effects of a one-two punch they absorbed at Pittsburgh, Durocher's dandies staggered into St. Louis yesterday and were flattened twice by a Cardinnal team that finally discovered what bats were for.

A total of 135,654 customers paid their way into American league parks yesterday and 87,090 turned out in the National league. Yankee Stadium in New York boasted the season's greatest throng, 65,804.

At St. Louis, 24,871 watched the Cardinals clip the Dodgers, 14-10, in a long-winded opening game and 4-2 in the afterpiece, which was held to five and a half innings because the daylight ran out.

The double defeat reduced Brooklyn's margin to a single game over the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates, who missed their chance to share the lead by dividing a doubleheader with the Boston Braves.

The Dodgers and Cards went at it hammer and tongs, but Cardinal Catcher Ken O'Dea decided the issue in the opening game with a grand-slam homer that routed Whitlow Wyatt in the first inning and a three-run double that broke a 10-10 tie in the seventh.

Kirby Higbe issued a trio of untimely walks in losing the second game. With the bases filled on passes in the fouth inning, Jimmy Brown tripled to bring in all the runs St. Louis needed, and came home himself on an outfield fly.

Both managers and three players were chased from the field for differing with the umpires. Leo Durocher and Billy Southworth were waved to the showers in the opener, along with Freddie Fitzsimmons of the Brooks, while Dodgers Wyatt and Dolph Camilli were banished during the nightcap.

Pressure finally caught up with the league-leading Cleveland Indians, and the Boston Red Sox casher in on a trio of errors for an 8-4 triumph that ended the Tribe's winning streak at 13 games. The Boston crowd of 32,123 was the second biggest of the day.

Rudy York's sixth and seventh home runs of the season carried the Detroit Tigers to an 8-7 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, but Phil Marchildon pitched a sparkling two-hitter in the nightcap to give the A's an even break, 1-0.

The New York Yankees snapped a deadlock with the Red Sox and moved to within a half game of the second-place Tigers by sweeping a bargain bill from the Chicago White Sox, 6-4 and 3-1.

The St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators divided their double bill, Washington taking the opener 9-8 on Stan Spence's two-run triple in the ninth and St. Louis coming back for a 5-1 decision in the second with the help of effective pitching by Al Hollingsworth.

Pittsburgh downed Boston 6-1 in the first game behind the seven-hit pitching of Max Butcher, but the Braves came back with a 14-hit attack to square accounts, 12-3.

The New York Giants knocked Bucky Walters out of the box in the second inning and went on to trip the Cincinnati Reds, 5-4.

At Chicago, the Cubs downed the Philadelphia Phils, 9-5, but the Phils took the second game, 8-1.

New Track Gets Set In Jersey

CAMDEN, N. J. —(INS)— Garden State Park, near Camden, will seek a high place in the nation's horse racing world this summer with expenditure of approximately $500,000 in stakes, purses and awards to horsemen, according to secretary Charles J. McLennan.

* * *

McLennan said the present tentative schedule embraces a minimum season of from 40 to 50 days. Minimum purses, he disclosed, will be $1,000, with stakes carrying either $10,000 or $5,000 in added money.

Of the meeting's total of $500,000, said McLennan, most of the prize money will go back into rentals living expenses and normal purchasing items of horsemen, jockeys and racing employes.

The racing secretary is busy drafting a corps of racing officials for a new trial. The men mostly will be drafted from other leading tracks, including Pimlico, Hialeah Park, Havre De Grace, and Suffolk Downs.

Unlikely Expected Saturday

Preakness Shapes Up as Pretty Fair Race.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — Because several unexpected things happened in the Kentucky Derby, the 62nd running of the Preakness at ancient Pimlico Saturday shapes up as a pretty fair race.

First of the unexpecteds in the Churchill Downs mile and a quarter classic was the victory of Shut Out.

The last son of the great Equipoise from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable was just going out for the exercise, leaving the task of winning the $64,225 purse to his more famous stablemate, Devil Diver.

At least, that was the way most of the experts and laymen figured it. Hadn't Eddie Arcaro, the country's No. 1 rider, had his choice of the two horses and selected Devil Diver?

The second of the unexpected was Alsab. Remember him — the winner of ten straight races as a two-year-old, winter book Derby favorite and then a complete flop?

He had not shown enough to indicate he even would be in the money. But Al Sabath's bargain colt was pounds the best as the race was run. He was hit as he came out of the gate, ran into a couple of blind switches going around the first turn and then, with Basil James piloting him in and out of the pack, he really turned on the steam from the half-mile post on but had to be content with second money.

The bid left him two and a half lengths back of Shut Out, who stayed close to the early pace and then pulled into command in the stretch.

Then there was Requested, Ben Whitaker's Texas-owned chestnut, who was the biggest disappointment of the Derby after being backed into second choice by a crowd estimated all the way from 60,000 to Col. Matt Winn's figure of 100,000.

Requested outran only one horse in the field of 15 but Blackie McCoole, his trainer, said he had a rough trip and refused to extend himself.

* * *

The Greentree pair, Alsab and Requested, along with Mrs. Barclay Douglas' Fair Call, William Woodward's Apache, Valdina Orphan and Hollywood and possibly William DuPont Jr., Fairy Manah are headed for Pimlico.

Death Sentence Hangs Over Head Of Prairie Dog

PALESTINE, Tex. —(INS)— Sadie, believed to be the only prairie dog living at large in East Texas, has been condemned to death. In fact, she may be already dead by the time you read this.

Sadie took up lodging under the Palestine Chamber of Commerce building last summer. Where she came from no one knows—prairie dogs aren't usually found for hundreds of miles westward.

But she became popular with the Chamber of Commerce officials and railroad men, dozens of whom made a daily habit of stopping to feed her peanuts.

The other day, however, Sadie treacherously bit the hand of Tom Slaughter, locomotive engineer, as he offered her a peanut. For fear she may have rabies, she will be shot the next time she appears while there's a man around with a gun—and the willpower to execute Sadie.

2—Card of Thanks

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear husband and father who passed away a year ago, May 4, 1941, Luther Lee Watkins:

Oh dearest loved one how we miss you!
Tears in silence often flow;
Memories keep you ever near us,
Though you passed a year ago.

Dear one, you are not forgotten;
It is sweet to breathe your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

A loving Dad, so true and kind,
No living friend on earth like you, we find.
For your family you did your best;
We pray to God to give you rest.

How often our thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away,
Where we laid you to rest
Just one year ago today.

Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Cleo Watkins; and children, Luther, Jr., and Ethel Mae. (C-K)

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—They Never Die.

By Harold Gray

OH-H-H. DADDY! WE THOUGHT-- THAT IS-- WE HEARD--
THAT I WAS DEAD, EH? THE BOMBER WE WERE ON WAS LOST-- WE HAD A BIT OF A SWIM IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC--- QUITE INVIGORATING!
BUT THE UNIFORM! THREE STARS! A LIEUTENANT GENERAL!
WHY NOT? I'VE HAD CONSIDERABLE EXPERIENCE AS A SOLDIER---A SOLDIER OF FORTUNE, MOSTLY--FIGHTING TO WIN MILLIONS FOR MYSELF. IT'S TRUE.
BUT I DID WIN - I KNOW THE JUNGLE--AND THE MEN OF THE JUNGLE KNOW ME-- AND FOLLOW ME---AND THIS TIME WE'RE FIGHTING FOR SOMETHING NO MONEY CAN BUY--EH, BOYS?
YES, SAHIB!
BUT THAT UNIFORM, "DADDY"- I DON'T SEE "LI'L S." ON IT AT ALL-
OH-- WELL, YOU SEE, ANNIE, I GOT IN A LITTLE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE--AFTER ALL, WE'RE ALL OUT TO LICK THE SAME GANG-

BUT SHE WAS WRONG!
OH! HE MUST HAVE SHOT THE COLONEL!
THE HEAVY PAPERWEIGHT STRUCK CARSON ON THE SIDE OF THE FACE!
WHIZ
THE COLONEL HAD LEAPED FOR THE GUN JUST AS IT FLEW FROM CARSON'S GRASP AND WAS DISCHARGED, THE BULLET FLYING HARMLESSLY OVER CAREY'S HEAD. CARSON CRUMPLED TO THE FLOOR.
THE MAD-MAN!
THE GUN

THE NEBBS—A Bit Misunderstood.

I PROMISED CLEO A ROUND OF GOLF, AND I FEEL LIKE I COULD BREAK THE COURSE RECORD
THAT'S ANOTHER TRIUMPH OF HOPE OVER EXPERIENCE
WHY, LEO LEDERER! I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU SINCE LAST SUMMER. WILL YOU JOIN US?
I HAVE A GAME WITH PAUL PRESSMAN...LET'S MAKE IT A FOURSOME
5-4
THAT GUY AGAIN -- HE'S ALWAYS AROUND, LIKE A HOOP ON A BARREL
BE SOCIABLE FOR MY SAKE.. I THINK HE'S RATHER NICE
HE'S A FINE CHAP, RUDY...MAYBE YOU DON'T UNDERSTAND HIM
I DON'T UNDERSTAND JACK THE RIPPER, EITHER, BUT I WOULDN'T LIKE HIM IF I DID!!

STOCK MARKET LEADERS MOVE UP FRACTIONS

U. S. Steel Included Among Upswinging Issues, Plates Demanded.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Most stock market leaders were fractionally higher in today's transactions.

On the upside were Anaconda, U. S. Steel, Radio Corp., and American Telephone.

Boardrooms studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that plates now hold their first place in metal demand because of increasing shipbuilding requirements.

"To meet these needs," the publication added, "platemakers have set new production records. Output in May is expected to reach a new high, close to 1,000,000 tons, which would be 100,000 to 125,000 tons above the April estimate."

THEATERS

Hardy Adventure.

Andy Hardy goes into the car-towing business and also steers a wallflower towards social success in the current Mickey Rooney vehicle, "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," at the Ohio. He gets into a predicament when he is accused of stealing an FBI man's car but he manages to make the stag line aware of Melodie Nesbit, a girl who never had a chance because of her squabbling parents. Donna Reed plays "Melodie," and Ann Rutherford returns as Andy's one love, "Polly Benedict." Lewis Stone and Sara Haden are in the cast.

Broadway Story.

A Broadway actress bull-dozes a young medico into marriage to save herself an unpleasant encounter with the law after a screwball escapade in "The Lady Is Willing," Marlene Dietrich's starring feature at the Madison. Fred MacMurray plays the young doctor and the cast includes a bundle of charm in Baby Corey, the infant stolen by the actress. Manhattan mobsters learn there's a bigger war than their own going on in the picture. "Two Yanks In Trinidad," the second attraction. Pat O'Brien, Brian Donlevy and Janet Blair are in the cast.

Blues Cavalcade.

Bing Crosby's starring picture, "Birth of the Blues," showing at the Ritz presents a cavalcade of the red-hot classics that emanated from that band of pioneers who set the songs of the levies to a new rhythm. Mary Martin, Jack Teagarden and Brian Donlevy revive "St. Louis Blues," "Memphis Blues," and some of the other famous blues songs. Rochester is also in the cast. "Sunset On the Desert," with Roy Rogers is the second film.

Romantic Comedy.

Robert Benchley and Eve Arden add Broadway color to "Bedtime Story," the romantic comedy at the Park co-starring Loretta Young and Fredric March. Benchley plays a theatrical agent who also has to act as Cupid in trying to patch up differences between his stars. Miss Young has the role of a popular actress who is unsuccessful in her attempts to get her playwright-husband to retire. Allyn Joslyn and Helen Westley are in the cast. "Girl From Alaska," with Ray Middleton is the second attraction.

Advises Parents To Censor Mail To Army Boys

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Chaplain Gary Bousman, Camp Grant, Ill., believes the folks at home should censor the letters they write to sons in the army.

"Parents should realize that homesickness in the soldier begins at home," he wrote in an article appearing in the last quarterly of "The Army and Navy Chaplains."

"Young soldiers complain to their homes about the adjustments they must make. Wise parents will realize these complaints are natural under the circumstances. They will lend an attentive ear but will not encourage their son to become a knocker."

The home, said Chaplain Bousman, can nurture homesickness until it becomes like a "strangling vine choking the morale of its victims" or snuff it out by letters of courage, cheer and confidence.

Beer Supply In London Hit by Labor Shortage

LONDON—(INS)—A special war communique issued today from our local 'pub' reads:

"Situation on the beer front deteriorating. Whisky front unchanged, though price expected to go from $4 to $5 a fifth any day now. Morale worsening due to 33⅓ percent beer rationing enforced today."

Caused by the shortage of men available for work in the breweries and to extract malt from barley, brewers' supplies to retailers have today been cut by from ten to thirty three percent

So far, however, there has been no official rationing, so it is expected that the same "under the counter" methods as have been applied to other foods and commodities of which there is a shortage, will be introduced with beer.

Many saloon keepers are faced with the problem of either shutting down or rationing their customers. Drink rationing will definitely not prove popular with beer-loving Englishmen.

LONDON WOMEN STILL HAVE CHOICE OF CLOTHES STYLES

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Grandma and eighteen-year-old Jane won't be wearing identical clothes, not even under the new clothing restriction order.

It is unfortunate perhaps that the Board of Trade picked the word "utility" to classify the new cloth that's recently appeared on the market. "Utility" has such dreary connotations. The Board of Trade announcement referred also to the standardization of models, that meant fewer styles. Embroidery, frills, pleats—all the little things that give a dress distinction—were ordered off the market. A pretty dismal outlook, I figured.

When I first heard about it, I visualized the London women of tomorrow being identically clad in drab browns and greys. So I was quite unprepared for the gay and thoroughly "normal" stocks of materials and models that I found in the big department stores.

In the suit section I was shown a large selection of nice tweedy material, both plain and checked. The models were smart, very similar to what you'll find in any "college shop" department back home. The only startling factor about the outfits were the price tags. For 97 shillings ($18.95) and of course, eighteen coupons, any one of them could have been mine.

Across the aisle was another rack of suits made of material which hasn't been singled out to come under the "utility" heading. Here I found the exact same models. Perhaps the materials were slightly superior, but certainly no more durable. The price of these non-utility suits ranged from 40 to 50 dollars. Even in pre-war days, I don't think any woman would have thought twice about which type of suit to buy. There's a goodly difference between $18.95 and 50 dollars in any language, clothes rationing or no clothes rationing.

This brings me to the all important price-fixing section of the board of trade announcement. For almost a year now, all clothing stores have been operating on fixed quotas that haven't always been able to answer the customer's demands. As the demand often exceeded the supply on hand, prices were going steadily up. Now that element is back in control and pretty much everyone will benefit by it.

Ship To Be Used For Diplomat Exchange

No drab gray paint covers the sides of the Drottingholm, diplomat swap ship, pictured at Jersey City after its arrival from Goteborg, Sweden. She doesn't have to worry about submarines. The vessel has been chartered by the U. S. to carry German and Italian diplomats held in this country to Lisbon where they will be exchanged for American diplomats now held by the Axis governments. A swap for Japanese officials will be made on another voyage.

Confer Today On 'Swap Drive' Plan To Save On Tires

schedules because its transportation facilities were adequate for the demands.

The mayor warned, however, that the workers in the city must organize in a "swap-drive" campaign to make their tires last longer. Locke said he would name an official administrator for a "swap-drive" campaign very soon.

The mayor said that defense officials believe that automobile tires will be worn out in 14 months unless some steps are taken to conserve them.

The "swap-drive" campaign, in which neighbors or fellow-workers organize a plan in which they take turns driving each other to work, had already been started in several cities and is advocated by national civilian defense leaders as an effective means to "stretch" civilian tire supplies.

One of the ideas advanced in the early sessions of the meeting in Columbus today was to use double-decked trailers, employed in pre-war days to haul new autos from the factory to the leader, as a means of carrying workers to and from work.

George McConnaughey, chairman of the state public utilities commission and head of the state's new car transportation committee, said that the commission has approved a trailer converted into a bus and that at least one is now being used to get workers to the Ravenna arsenal.

British Seaman Wins His Ninth War Decoration

LONDON—(INS)—Britain's most bemedalled seaman of this war, coxwain Blogg of Cromer, Norfolk has been awarded still another decoration, the British Empire Medal, bringing his total up to nine.

For saving lives under dangerout conditions, Blogg has been thrice awarded the Lifeboatman's Victoria Cross (gold medal of the Life Boat Society with two silver bars); he holds the silver medal, also with two bars; the George Cross, Britain's highest civilian decoration; and the Order of the British Empire.

He received the British Empire Medal for saving eighty-eight lives in a fierce gale when six ships ran aground on Haisboro Sands off the southeast coast of England.

When told that he would be called to Buckingham Palace for a Royal Investiture, his only reply was:

"I suppose that'll mean another confounded trip to London."
